CONTRACTS.

COMHCHUALLACHT PHUIRT LAIRGE.
(Corporation of Waterford.)

NOTICE TO BUILDING CONTRACTORS.

Tenders are hereby invited from competent Contractors for the erection of 80 Houses at Cannon street, Waterford, together with drains, roads, footpaths, sewers, watermains, etc., in accordance with Plans and Specification prepared by Mr. David Sheehy, B.E., M.Inst.C.E.I., Borough Surveyor, City Hall, Waterford, to whom application may be made for Tender Forms, Plans, Specification and Bills of Quantities.

The works may, at the option of the Corporation, be carried out in two parts, the first part to consist of the erection of 58 houses and the second part consisting of the erection of 22 houses. The erection of the latter (if proceeded with) will commence during the progress of the first part. The Corporation reserves the right to decide not to erect the 22 houses, in which case the Contractor shall be paid pro rata for the 58 houses erected.

The sum of Five Guineas (£5 5s. 0d.) must be lodged with the Borough Treasurer, City Hall, Waterford, on application being made for Tender Forms etc. This sum will be returned on receipt of a bona fide Tender and the return of the Plans, Specification, and Bills of Quantities.

Materials of Irish manufacture must be used as far as practical, local labour to be given preference, and City Tradesmen and Labourers are to get preference of Employment under the Contract.

As regards the rate of wages to be paid and the conditions of labour to be observed, the provisions of Section 8 (Housing) (Financial and Miscellaneous) Act, 1932, will apply to this Contract.

Sealed Tenders on the prescribed Form, and accompanied by Bills of Quantities, priced in detail, endorsed "Housing Tender," should be lodged with the undersigned not later than 12 NOON on FRIDAY, 12th JULY, 1940.

The lowest or any Tender may not necessarily be accepted.

Signed, JAMES P. GERAGHTY,
City Manager and Town Clerk.
City Hall, Waterford.
28th June, 1940.

FOOD AND PRODUCE MARKETS

CATTLE.

NORWICH.—Except for pigs, which were in fair supply, the quantities of fat stock on offer were below average. A clearance was made under the regulations. Fresh Irish store cattle and store sheep were too few to quote. Arrivals—288 cattle, 104 sheep and 407 pigs.

CARLISLE—There were forward at the Sands Cattle Market on Saturday 270 licensed Irish cattle and about 100 free. Trade was quiet, not many buyers being present. Quotations—feeding polled bullocks, £18 to £25; wintering bullocks, £14 to £18; feeding heifers, £17 to £21; smaller heifers, £13 10/- to £16.

DONCASTER—Light show English dairy stock. Newly calved cows to £36, calving heifers £31, Irish milkers to £26. Young Irish store cattle made from £12 10/- to £18 10/-, sucking pigs to 20/- stores £2 10/-, in-piggers £7, sows in pig £10.

GRAIN.

FLOATING GRAIN CARGOES (THE BALTIC). — WHEAT — Dull conditions prevailed, and Canadian (also Australian) grades nominally unchanged, with Plates not offered. MAIZE quiet at late rates.

LIVERPOOL CORN.—The port area grain committee met the demand for cereals as far as possible at fixed prices, carriage and haulage being charged by firms distributing. WHEAT firm, with moderate demand, and small supply at 7/- per cwt. on farm. MAIZE still firm at £10 per ton, but no allocations made. FLOUR moved fairly at 25/6 for straightrun delivered, and 26/6 per sack for imported, including bags. OATS again very scarce, and feeding in good request at 11/-, but milling quiet at 12/- per cwt. PEAS continued nominal through lack of offerings, 27/6 quoted for New Zealand, and 28/- per cwt. Tasmanian. WHEAT FEEDS steady and fairly active at 8/7½ per cwt. for bran and thirds wheat, and maize futures under control. Prices of shipment parcels of wheat f.o.b. unchanged in the absence of alteration in Winnipeg market. No. 1 Manitoba (Montreal) first half August held at 29/9, August 30/-, No. 2 early August 29/-, and No. 1 Vancouver early July 25/9 per quarter.

PROVISIONS.

DUBLIN FISH — On offer—100 packages salmon, 5 boxes lobsters and a small amount from country and local senders. Demand quiet at—Salmon 9d. to 1/-, grilse 8d. to 10d., soles, black 1/3 to 2/1; slips 1/-, turbot 6d. to 9d., brill 6d. to 11d. per lb.; ray 5/- to 20/-, wings 20/- to 30/-, and pollock 15/- to 20/- box.

DUBLIN POTATO—Moderate supplies, with sales and prices steady at—Epicures 14/- and Queens 16/- per cwt.

DUBLIN VEGETABLE—Supplies under average and readily cleared at—York cabbage, large 40/- to 90/-, extra 100/- to 124/-, small 20/- to 50/- load; cauliflowers 5/- to 7/-, lettuce 3d. to 1/- doz., beet 1/9 to 2/6, carrots 1/- to 2/- doz. bunches, turnips 4d. to 9d., onions 1/- to 1/6 scallions 9d. to 1/6 bunch, parsley 6d. gooseberries 2/6 to 3/6, peas 1/- to 1/6, broad beans 2/- chip, kidney 1/6 per lb., tomatoes 9d. to 1/4, potatoes 1/9 stone, strawberries 1/- to 1/6, raspberries 1/- to 1/3, loganberries 1/-, currants, red 4d. to 6d., black 7d. to 8d. punnet.

GRIMSBY FISH—Salmon 1/11 to 2/- per lb., lemon soles 17/-, halibut 11/-, small haddocks 9/6, medium 8/- to 9/6 large 9/6 to 11/-; cod 9/6 to 11/6, dabs 12/- to 16/-, roker 11/6 to 12/6, hake 14/- to 15/-, dogfish 11/-, monkfish 8/6, coalfish 9/-, smoked haddocks 14/6, smoked fillets 17/-, smoked codlings 12/- per stone.

LIVERPOOL.—General conditions in this market showed no material change during the week. Arrangements for increased supplies of bacon from Eire were made by the Ministry of Food also, and brought exports of Eire cheese under official control. EGGS firm, with offers made sparingly on spot for shipment. Northern Irish held at recent advance of 22/6 for specials, 21/6 standards, 19/- selected. English standards 21/6. Eireann at wholesalers' maximum of 17/- for specials and standards, and 1/9 selected pullets and ducks per 120.

PRODUCE.

LIVERPOOL.—COCOA—A dull and featureless market has prevailed for West African throughout the week, and in the absence of interest from buyers no quotable change is noticeable.

HIDES AND LEATHER

(SPECIAL REPORT.)

Owing to the keen demand for quality sole leather, all offerings of domestic hides met a quick clearance at the controlled rates. English ox and heifer first clear, 70-79lb. to 90lb. and up, 8⅜d., and 69lb. to 49lb. and under, 7d. per lb. First clear cows and bulls and calfskins remain unchanged. Business in imported hides was slow, with prices more or less nominal. Less interest was shown in frigorifics, and dry River Plates, though steady, failed to attract buyers. Australasian descriptions were a dull market, but there were a few transactions in Africans, comprising dry and dry-salted firsts at 7¼d. per lb. The most active section of the leather trade continues to be that concerned with Service requirements. The poor demand for sole leather for civilian wear has decided tanners to make reductions of 5 to 10 p.c. on bends made from imported hides, but those produced from domestic hides remain unchanged. There was a sustained demand for repairing bends. A steady demand was reported for offal, with prices mostly a shade easier. Trading in upper leathers included calf glace kid in brown and black, and there was a moderate business in suede and patent.

NORTHERN IRELAND REVENUE RETURNS

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

BELFAST, Saturday.

The Northern Ireland Revenue returns for the first quarter of the financial year show a total revenue of £2,512,632, against £2,422,544 for the same time last year. The tax revenue transferred amounted to £356,414, as compared with £366,542 last year. Motor vehicle duties, at £123,414, showed an increase of almost £15,000. Revenue reserved residuary share received totalled £1,480,170, against £1,387,189. The non-tax revenue, at £640,030 (against £668,813) included payments of £217,000 by the Imperial Government under the Unemployment Agreement Act (1936), compared with £246,000. Ulster Savings Certificates issued stand at £630,000, the figure at the same period in 1939 being [illegible]

DEPRECIATION IN EQUITIES

FORCED SELLING A FACTOR

SHAREHOLDERS' GLOOMY PROSPECTS

It is only natural that the terms of the capitulation which France has accepted should have left their mark upon Stock Exchange securities. Prices gave way severely during the early part of last week, and even the Gilt-edged group was not able to resist the weakening influence of the political situation. Recent events largely explain the decision of the British Chancellor to raise new money by placing "on tap" a short-dated security, instead of floating a fairly long-dated loan for a definite sum. So serious became the depreciation in Equities last week that at one time members were discussing the advisability of extending the minimum dealing price system. Much of the sharp fall is caused by forced selling, believed to be due to the banks pressing clients to repay loans, but towards the week-end a better tendency developed.

POPULAR SHARES

It is understood that an official hint was given that institutional buyers, such as the insurance companies, should, after taking up their share of the new War Loan, place funds in the leading Industrials. Further, some bargain-hunting was induced by comments pointing out the attractive level to which many of the soundest equities had declined. As a result, a moderate recovery occurred in many of the leaders, which had been falling ever since the Germans invaded the Low Countries. Popular shares, such as Imperial Chemical Industries, Dunlop Rubbers and Courtaulds rose well, and a feature was a sharp recovery in Distillers, as the profit and dividend statement was better than had been expected.

Once again it was shown that the fall in prices had not appreciably increased the market supply of stock, as dealers would usually only negotiate business so that a small volume of buying soon lifted prices.

An additional reason for the weakness of the Stock markets is the certainty that the forthcoming Supplementary Budget will announce a further increase in taxation, and the idea at present is that this will particularly affect industrial companies. If so available profits, which may be reduced by war conditions, will be further curtailed, thus compelling directors to reduce dividends to shareholders. To what extent this course will be necessary cannot be indicated, and the uncertainty is a contributory cause of market weakness.

LOSSES UNAVOIDABLE

In connection with the fall in Ord. stocks and shares, attention has been drawn to the exceptionally high yields which these give on the basis of the last annual dividends. Unfortunately, there is no certainty that shareholders' distributions will be maintained. Indeed, the chances are that, broadly speaking, they will be reduced; for, if profits from manufacture or trade are not greatly diminished by war conditions—in some cases, of course, they will be increased—industrial and other companies may have to provide large sums to meet damage to property through enemy action. Because of this, and also because of the ordeal through which Great Britain is now passing, it is impossible to say if Imperial Tobaccos, Imperial Chemical Industries, General Electric and similar securities are cheap or dear at current prices, which are substantially below the highest of this year.

Shareholders, as a body, are faced with the likelihood of a depreciation of their investments, and also a reduction in the income from them, but these losses must be regarded as unavoidable under the exceptional circumstances that have had to be faced since September last.

Depreciation of capital values, of course, is not confined to ordinary shares and stocks. The movement is not really pronounced in British Government issues, for we see the 3½ per Cent. War Loan only a few pounds below par and the newer 3 per cent. issue at only a fraction below that level; but some British Railway fixed charge issues have fallen rather severely. During last week, for example, both Great Western and Southern 5 per cent. Preference stocks were dealt in at 60, which means that if the full dividends are maintained a purchaser at that figure would obtain an investment yielding 8⅓ per cent. In this case, as stated on a previous occasion, [illegible]

MANCHESTER MARKETS REVIEW

There has been few new delevolpments in the provision trade in this centre during the past week, and while stocks of certain commodities are somewhat restricted in other directions, the position is quite satisfactory. Owing to prevailing weather conditions demand for bacon can hardly be described as brisk, and spot supplies are adequate for current requirements. Stocks of Continental bacon are virtually cleared, but this is causing little or no anxiety, as arrivals from other sources, including Eire and Canada, are coming forward on a good scale. Home-cured bacon is now steadily playing a more important part in the allocation, and stocks are being more freely drawn upon, but curing establishments are still receiving good supplies of pigs of satisfactory quality. Only small quantities of hams are being released, and confectioners and other retailers of cooked meats are having difficulty in procuring supplies, for which they hold permits.

Taken all round, retailers are finding that consumers are taking up their full ration of butter, but supplies are ample for all requirements. Wholesalers are making every effort for a continuance of supplies should the emergency arise. There is little change in the position of Colonial cheese either with regard to price or quantity. Marketings of Lancashire and Cheshire are now showing a seasonal increase, and with a steady consumptive demand all descriptions command the full maximum prices. While there is still a shortage of home rendered and imported lard, arrivals of Irish have shown some signs of expansion. Demand for eggs has improved somewhat, and while Eireann are held for full rates English and Northern Ireland make rather more money. Retailers complain that, while producers of eggs in Eire and Northern Ireland are complying with the regulations regarding grading, home producers are somewhat lax in this respect.

Increased supplies of fat cattle were available at Mode Wheel, the collecting centre under the Government scheme. The quality was an improvement on recent standards. A few sheep, lambs and calves were also received. Arrivals of pigs to the Water street collecting centre continue well up to the average, and the quality good. More than half were allocated for bacon, and the remainder for pork purposes. Aggregate supplies of meat available for distribution have been on a rather heavier basis. The position with regard to home killed beef, mutton and lamb was more satisfactory. Veal and pork in lighter supply, but ample for the demand. Average pitchings of all classes of imported meat were reported. In dead poultry, best birds have met with a fair inquiry at full rates. Stocks of turkeys are practically cleared.

Arrivals of salmon have been in excess of demand, and sellers have found some difficulty in effecting a clearance. Both price and quality have had a rather wide range. Irish salmon was quoted at 1/6 to 1/10, and grilse 1/- to 1/3 per lb. wholesale.

6¼, thus indicating a yield of 6¼ per cent. without allowing for accrued dividend. Still more striking was the quotation of Lloyd's Bank partly-paid shares at a price which promises a return of as much as 7½ per cent. if the 12 per cent. dividend is forthcoming in the future.

THE FALL IN BANKS

Apart from the question of future dividends, the fall in Bank shares is rather surprising, seeing that ordinarily market values are governed by the gilt-edged market, because the banks are very large holders of British Government and similar securities. It should be pointed out, however, that the fall in Bank shares has been most pronounced in the partly-paid issues. Thus, while Lloyds £5 (£1 paid), as shown above, are quoted on a yield basis of 7½ per cent., assuming no cut in the dividend, the fully-paid shares upon which the distribution is limited to 5 per cent., scarcely yield more than 4 per cent. Excluding accrued interest. Similarly, while the return on Midland Bank partly-paid is 6¼ per cent., the fully-paid shares promise little more than 4½ per cent. This wide difference would seem to suggest a fear that some banks may make a call upon their partly-paid shares. This, however, [illegible] unlikely than a decision to [illegible] A bank might desire to i[illegible] capital, but it is very [illegible] necessary Treasury conse[illegible] ming, and i[illegible] not eas[illegible] all would [illegible]

WALL STREET IRREGULAR

MANY TRADERS HOLDING OFF

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

NEW YORK, Saturday.

WITH demand faltering, and many traders holding off and awaiting domestic and foreign developments, dealings to-day were inconsequential. With movements very narrow, sentiment is more cheerful following the nomination of Mr. Willkie, but at the same time it is pointed out that the big political battle has still to come. The turnover was very small, totalling only 170,000 shares.

The final list was mostly minor fractions either way, and the trend at the close was irregular.

Call money was nominal. Prime paper was quoted at ½ to ¾ per cent. Open market discount rates were unchanged at ⅜ to 7/16 per cent. for ninety-day bank bills, and ⅜ to 7/16 per cent. for six months' bills. Sterling exchange opened 3 points lower at 3.87, and early declined to 3.78. The rate then rallied to 3.81, and finally advanced to close 8 points down, compared with the previous close at 3.82.

LONDON MONEY MARKET

The last working day of the half-year was comfortably turned owing to previous arrangements carried through to avert any serious stringency. Large Treasury bill maturities also assisted the market. At the outset fresh money until Monday commanded up to 1¼ per cent., but subsequently the position became decidedly easier. Before the close it was possible to secure accommodation down to ½ per cent.

Cooking expense HALVED in my house says the ESSE owner

My cooker is an ESSE. The small fire burns continuously, using Irish anthracite or coke. Consumption is so low that my fuel bill is half what it would be with an ordinary coal, gas or electric cooker. That is not all. The kitchen, because is fresh, fume-free. Food cooked tastes better, IS better. Cook has never known a cooker so easy to work, so SURE in its results. It has roomy ovens, ample top plate space and boils a pint of water a minute. Yes, we know a big difference with the ESSE.

It has an ESSE HEAT STORAGE COOKER

Reduces fuel bills by half. Burns continuously day and night, always ready for INSTANT action.

Models to suit any size of household.

NEW YORK METAL MARKET

COPPER—After touching 11 cents the price firmed ⅛ in sympathy with Wall Street. Standard futures finished 33 to 28 points lower.

TIN—At the end of the week the market was dull and easy. Spot—New York lost 2.50 on the week, and closed at 52.62½.

SPELTER quiet, but steady.

TINPLATES—New business has improved, and specifications are pouring in unchanged at $5.

PIG IRON—No outstanding feature and prices unchanged.

STEEL—Buying hesitance resulting from the French situation has already been partially corrected. The scrap market generally is apprehensive, but, with mills buying quite heavily and steadily, further weakening is not anticipated.

Bank of Ireland, Dublin

In order to prepare the dividend payable by the Bank of Ireland, Dublin, on the 1st August, 1940, the balances of the several accounts in Bank Stock will be struck on the night of Friday, 12th July. Transfers may be made on or after the 13th July, ex dividend.

Summer Time is to be introduced in Turkey to-day for the first time. All clocks are to be advanced by one hour.—Reuter.

You can still get six to twelve per cent. per annum —without risk!

To those whose days are haunted by the spectacle of investments tottering and capital dwindling—a word of hope. You can still get as much as 12 p.c. per annum return on your money; there is one investment which pays a generous dividend absolutely and entirely without risk.

In peace, a Canada Life Annuity was an investment of unique attractiveness—and now, in wartime, it is a primary necessity. Backed by assets of over £55,000,000, the Canada Life Assurance Company has an assurance scheme for every need. Write, giving date of birth, to J. J. McConnell, Manager for Eire, 9, 10, 11 Grafton St., Dublin, for details.

Films of the Week

HORNUNG'S HERO COMES TO LIFE

ADELPHI

When reading the "Raffles" series in the golden long ago I never could believe in E. W. Hornung's hero. Frankly, I thought the "Amateur Cracksman" a prig and a poseur, but, as a general rule, he seemed just a lay figure. David Niven makes him credible, and even likeable.

The fact that famous playwright, John Van Druten, has had a hand in writing the screen play may have accounted for the fact that the central figure "came alive," but I prefer to think that most of the credit should go to Niven. And having seen Niven as Raffles I feel sure that he would have made a much better "Thin Man" than did William Powell.

For an American film "Raffles" is amazingly English. Barring an unmistakably American yelp from a small boy in the first sequence the characters are so distinctively English and the English settings so accurate that it is difficult to believe that the film was not made at Ealing or Elstree. I forgot—Dudley Digges, former Abbey Theatre player, is the police sleuth, and his Irish accent is very marked at times in the course of an excellent study.

Raffles, I think, must have been the pioneer of all "gentlemen crooks." His feats strained credulity and have lost nothing by Mr. Samuel Goldwyn's modernisation, but Niven carries them off with a smiling assurance and easy grace that would convince any audience against its will. Olivia de Havilland has not very much to do as Gwen, but she does that little well, and Dame May Whitty is amusingly in character as an elderly English society leader.

The whole affair is a pleasant blend of laughter and excitement, to be recommended in these worrying days.

"Spats To Spurs" is an utterly improbable, but amusing, Western farce, in which Frank Morgan is "the main guy"; but the acting of little Virginia Weidler is brimming with promise.

PAVILION, DUN LAOGHAIRE

Technicolour gets a great opportunity of showing what it can do in "Hollywood Cavalcade." "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington," which takes its place at this cinema on Thursday, is one of the best films Capra has made. Alice Fay and Don Ameche are in the first-named picture, while Jean Arthur, James Stewart and Claude Rains—particularly Claude Rains—are in the other.

CORINTHIAN SONG FILM

Anybody who can get America on the Radio these nights—and the U.S. Stations are more in demand than ever, for obvious reasons—must have heard the latest "song hit," which is elegantly entitled: "Oh, Johnny, How You Can Love." It also can be heard on the B.B.C.—there is no escape. Well, Universal have made it into a picture, which will provide Corinthian patrons with just over an hour's hectic entertainment, in which police, gangsters and love-birds are furiously active. In the middle of all the excitement the producer has managed to squeeze in two other songs in addition to "Oh, Johnny." Tom Brown is Johnny, and the girl is Peggy Moran.

Nobody who knows this cinema's well-proven recipe for entertainment need be told that the second feature film is a "Western." On this occasion, Johnny MacBrown (where do they get the names?) and Bab Baker are disporting themselves "West of Carson City."

PAUL ROBESON A COAL MINER

CARLTON

Once upon a time when I interviewed Paul Robeson at the Shelbourne Hotel, Dublin, he grew enthusiastic about Celtic music, and, with the aid of the piano in his suite, endeavoured to show me how similar it was in many respects to the music of his own people. The demonstration was interrupted by the discovery that it was nearly 1 a.m. Robeson, who has a kind heart, thought of all the other guests who were trying to sleep, and I thought of an editor who was likely to be anything but kind-hearted when even exclusive interviews arrived late.

Well, here is the one and only Paul, in "The Proud Valley," which is in Wales, singing Celtic songs and hymns with that most determinedly Celtic people. The singing is one of the strongest features in a picture which reflects very high credit upon the Ealing Studios. There is a fine scene where the miners' choir, practising for the Eisteddfod, is startled by the sound of Robeson's wonderful bass pouring in through the open window as he takes up the solo part in the "Elijah" chorus.

Those Welsh miners sing on every possible occasion—singing seems to come easier to them almost than speech. They sing in church and in the pit, in joy and in sorrow. Even hardened cinema addicts will find it difficult to remain unmoved when Rachel Thomas—a very valuable addition to English films—leads the anxious crowd at the pithead in an old Welsh hymn. Of Robeson's songs in the film, I think the most dramatically effective was "All through the night."

There is plenty of drama in the picture, and the underground scenes have more power than similar sequences in the last Ufa picture worth talking about, "Kameradschaft." The hardest job above ground is a picnic compared with the miner's grim existence under the constant shadow of a terrible death. Robeson towers as a massive giant above the little Welshmen, whom he refuses to desert when they are smitten by the bitter poverty that follows the closing of the pits. Beyond singing, however, there is little for him to do save amble about as a good-natured, self-sacrificing friend.

Charles Williams gets a hearty pat on the back from me for his portrait of a young miner—and the fact that he is a Monmouth reporter when he isn't a film actor has nothing to do with it.

The film is so good in its main features that one is all the more annoyed with its weaknesses, and especially the manner of the ending, but it should not be missed.

PRELUDE TO THE U.S.A.

CAPITOL

Those who wish to recapture the thrill of boyhood's days, when romances of the American frontier were their staple literary food, should make a point of seeing "The First Rebel." Here are all the old favourites—stupid English officials, rascally English traders, absurdly haughty English officers, and doughty settlers with hearts of gold and platinum—all alive and kicking mightily.

The film has all the ingredients of the modern "Western," plus a strong romantic colouring. I could have wished that Claire Trevor's costume as the daughter of a wilderness pub.-owner did not resemble so closely the slacks and open-necked shirt of to-day's holidaying Miss, but I can forgive Claire more than that for her very bright performance as a whole.

John Wayne, as the leader of the settlers who stood up for their rights and paved the way for the coming of the U.S.A., is almost too good to be true. The gentleman who does Captain Swanson does him proud.

It is a picturesque and lively film, with a nicely spectacular attack on a large wooden fort occupied by British troops, who eventually make what Swanson describes as "a tactical withdrawal"—a nasty American crack, that.

In "The Courageous Dr. Christian" Jean Hersholt looks more than ever like the late G. K. Chesterton, and is desperately noble and annoyingly energetic—so far as the City Council is concerned—on behalf of a bevy of unwashed shanty town squatters. "The tear and the smile in thine eye" mixture is well done.

TOUGH STUFF IN NEW YORK

METROPOLE

The Cosgrave in "Wolf of New York" is not in the least like the Cosgrave you are thinking about, but, then, most of the people you meet in this film are not in the least like any people you know. Which is a matter for congratulation. And if Rose Hobart is "more beautiful than ever," as the publicity stuff says, she can't have been any Cleopatra in her earlier successes.

An extraordinary thing about this film is that the law is allowed to execute an innocent man in spite of the herculean efforts of Edmund Lowe, who is, apparently, one of the few honest lawyers practising near the Hudson River. Criminal lawyer, nothing deterred, goes gunning for criminal financier, who provides film title, and, after the usual wild and whirling motor episode, the bad man "gets his" and virtue is rewarded with a wedding. "Big Business" in the States appears to be a much brisker and brighter affair than big game hunting, but we have better-looking business men over here.

The filmgoers who like the Higgins family will be pleased with their general asininity in "Money to Burn," in which Lucile Gleason is the impossible woman whom we would all like to shoot, and James Gleason is her principal victim.

PSYCHOPATH AND FRIEND

SAVOY

The late W. B. Yeats gave me a severe shock on one occasion when he condemned a play called "Mice and Men" as the most immoral he had seen, because it concerned a middle-aged man who took a little girl from an orphanage and trained her carefully to take up duty as his wife. I had regarded it as a stickily sentimental production, whose only redeeming feature was that when she grew up the girl bilked the old man.

The film "Of Mice and Men" is a vastly different affair. It is founded on a novel by John Steinbeck, which was hailed in certain literary circles as a masterpiece. They can have it. Of the two I vote solidly for the comfortable sugar daddy in the stage play. This story concerns those dreadfully depressing people in the American agricultural areas whom Eugene O'Neill and his pals are always wishing upon us.

Lon Chaney, junior, as the outsize moron, lives up to the family tradition, and Burgess Meredith, as his friend, is responsible for some of the most subtle acting I have ever seen upon the screen. The work of Betty Field, Charles Bickford and Noah Beery, junior, also reaches an unusually high standard, and the direction is masterly—in fact, the picture stands well out of the ruck and has elements of greatness.

BING CROSBY AT ROYAL

This week's film at the Theatre Royal, "The Road to Singapore," consists of Dorothy Lamour, Bing Crosby, Bob Hope and very little else. Bob and Bing are two sailors singing—as they call it—in the South Seas, and Dorothy, in extremely simple but effective South Sea costume, keeps house for them. But (despite the singing) love enters in at the window and housekeeping takes the count.

"GOING WILD" AT GRAFTON

Quite a lot of people in the audience at the Grafton, when they have stopped laughing, will ask themselves if the heroine really did throw her hat over the windmill, and did she really deserve to be mentioned as "the other woman" in two divorce actions. And they probably will not be quite sure. Theodora Lynn was a paragon of all the virtues in her little home town, but when the local paper began to run as a serial, the notorious novel which she had published as Caroline Adams, things began to happen. Irene Dunne and Melvyn Douglas whirl giddily through the film.

THEATRE DE LUXE

This cinema is showing "The Man Who Wouldn't Talk," with Lloyd Nolan in the principal part, and Jean Rogers as the lady in the case. In addition to this strongly dramatic picture there is "City of Chance," in which Lynn Bari and C. Aubrey Smith appear.

REGAL ROOMS

Those who missed "The Shop Around the Corner," when it was shown at the Savoy, should be glad that they still have an opportunity of seeing it at the Regal. Ernst Lubitsch has contrived a very pleasant picture with the assistance of Margaret Sullavan, James Stewart and Frank Morgan.

TAUBER SINGS IN GREEN

CENTRAL CRIMINAL COURT

SOLDIER SENTENCED TO DEATH

JURY'S RECOMMENDATION TO MERCY

(BEFORE THE PRESIDENT OF THE HIGH COURT.)

After a trial lasting for four days, James Fennell, a private in the Defence Forces, on Saturday was found guilty of murder and sentenced to death. His execution was fixed for 25th July.

Fennell was charged with murdering Sergeant Ryan at Collins Barracks, Cork, after making threats against the sergeant in the presence of a number of other soldiers who gave evidence at the trial. The defence was that Fennell was insane at the time of the crime.

The jury took two hours to reach their verdict. They made a strong recommendation to mercy. The judge said that he would apply for their exemption from jury service for five years.

Mr. J. A. McCarthy, K.C., Mr. P. J. McEnery, K.C., and Mr. G. D. Murnaghan (instructed by the Chief State Solicitor) prosecuted; Mr. O. Moriarty, K.C., and Mr. P. Sullivan (instructed by Mr. E. A. O'Connell, Cork) defended.

Mr. William Nunn, former M.P. for Whitehaven, has been adopted as National Conservative candidate in the West Newcastle Division by-election.

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE NOTES

THE YEAR IN RETROSPECT

DR. DENIS J. COFFEY'S RETIREMENT

By Our Correspondent.

WITH the conclusion of all the important summer examinations, the session 1939-40 is almost complete, and the mood of Lewis Carroll's Walrus sets in upon your correspondent. For the next month or six weeks College will be deserted, and all activities which concern the students now cease until intensive work in the libraries recalls the onset of the autumn examinations. However, these are still a long way off. Our present duty, therefore, is to gaze in retrospect on the outstanding events of the past year, and in doing so to try to preserve in our memory all that is worth retention. But there are so many things, and so different in nature and importance, that it is not easy to pick and choose, to separate the cabbages and kings. Then, too, all memories of the past year are overshadowed by the great struggle on the Continent, in which so many brave nations have fought and fallen; the thought that the war is ever drawing nearer to us does not make it any easier to look back, and, even though we are not pessimists, makes it impossible to look forward.

AFTER THIRTY YEARS

There is one event of the last year in University College to which that much-abused epithet, "significant," can be applied correctly. This is the retiring of Dr. Denis J. Coffey after more than thirty years in office as President. Marking as it does an epoch in our history, it must be regarded as of supreme importance. Inevitable though it may have been, it still is an occasion for regret. We were sorry, very sorry, to have to lose Dr. Coffey, and our gratitude to him has been time and again evidenced by the reports of dinners and presentations beyond number which have appeared in this column throughout the last term. However, his successor, Dr. A. W. Conway, is well known to us, and has in fact been one of us for a very long time. We may be assured therefore that our ways will be understood as no stranger could understand them, and that there will be no abrupt or ill-considered departures from tradition. In passing, it is only fitting that, on behalf of the students, we should congratulate Dr. Conway on the new honour he has received from Oxford.

Dr. P. N. Guinan.

When dealing with personalities who have appeared in these notes during the year, there are several other names we must now mention as having provided highlights in the year's news. One of these is Professor Eoin McNeill, to whom a monumental tome of Gaelic studies was presented on the occasion of his seventieth birthday. Another is Professor Erwin Schrödinger, the distinguished Austrian physicist and Nobel Prize winner, who, together with other men of learning in exile, delivered lectures in College during the year. One could go on indefinitely on those lines, but a halt must be called to discuss student activities.

WAR BLAMED

The first term was dull and dreary. Nobody contradicts this fact, and it is a very unusual one. With no "Rag" to brighten up College and stimulate interest, without any important meetings such as inaugurals, even without any striking athletic successes, everything was at a low ebb. The war may be blamed for this: at least it is the only ascertainable cause. Gaiety was non-existent, and life was almost unbearably dull, for our interest in the then half-awake war was purely academic. In the second term things improved somewhat. Even the S.R.C. elections, however, excited comparatively little interest. After a while life began to pursue its normal course, and no fault can be found with the remainder of that term or the whole of the one just passed.

It is difficult to know what matters to pick on for comment, but there are a few outstanding. The new Students' Representative Council, elected early in the second term, is an improvement on most past ones, in that, unlike the others, it has done something other than talking. Mr. J. L. O'Neill, the president, has proved himself more than adequate for the position, and a number of satisfactory innovations have been made. In addition, a long, open letter to Dr. Conway has been written, setting out formally a great number of matters to which the Council wishes him to direct his attention, in the interest of the students.

Mr. J. L. O'Neill.

The College magazine has appeared sporadically, and its numbers have been of average quality; perhaps, the best issue of a rather lean year was the May one, under the editorship of Mr. Martin J. Sheridan.

STUDENT SOCIETIES

As to student societies, there is not so much to be said. As a commentator in the "National Student" said: "The migration from "86" did not benefit the Literary and Historical Society's health," and good speeches were few and far between. In the Commerce Society the standard of speaking was little better. The Law and Medical Societies, however, had good years, and their respective officers worked well. Very little was heard of the Engineering or Architectural Societies, but, then, very little ever is; so it may be presumed that all went well with them. The other smaller bodies, in their own way no less important, claim uniformly successful records of progress. Thus the whole year may be summed up as average. Nothing extraordinary or sensational happened; no new genius was discovered. On the other hand, it was not, after the Michaelmas Term at any rate, a boring year. The experienced student could stand aside and watch it all passing by, saying to himself contentedly that, while there was nothing brilliant about the year, neither was there anything to sadden or disappoint unduly. All's well with University College.

FINAL MEDICAL EXAMINATION

In conclusion, we must deal with the results of the Final Medical Examination, which concluded just over a week ago. In other faculties students have to take a separate exam. for each degree, but in Medicine they are rolled up into one, and the fortunate candidate can make a fine show of the string of letters they are now entitled to append to their names—M.B., B.Ch., B.A.O. In the recent exam. there were only three first class and eight second class honours awarded. First place went to Miss P. M. Guinan, who was recently awarded the O'Ferrall Gold Medal for Clinical Surgery in St. Vincent's. Second was Miss Nuala Sheehan and third to Mr. Francis J. Geoghegan, who took the Leonard Prize for both Medicine and Surgery in the recent Mater Hospital exams. Miss Mary Campbell and Mr. J. W. Magner shared the next place. The latter of these holds the Bellingham Medal for Clinical Medicine in St. Vincent's.

Other honours winners in order were:—Desmond J. Leahy, Desmond Carney, Elizabeth Hughes, D. T. Boland and Elizabeth Troy (ex aeq.) and Patrick Corridan. Most of these are well known in College. Among the passes were Messrs. A. Gill, D. O'Brien and Morrissey. Mr. Gill was this year the deservedly popular and efficient Captain of University Hall, while Messrs. O'Brien and Morrissey are not unknown in Rugby circles. Lack of space forbids any reference to the many other successful candidates.

NORTHERN IRELAND.

CIVIL AUTHORITIES (SPECIAL POWERS) ACTS (NORTHERN IRELAND), 1922 and 1933.

WHEREAS certain Regulations for Peace and Order in Northern Ireland are contained in the Schedule to the Civil Authorities (Special Powers) Act (Northern Ireland), 1922, and it is provided by Sub-section (3) of Section 1 of the said Act that the Minister of Home Affairs shall have power to make Regulations (a) for making further provision for the preservation of the Peace and Maintenance of Order, and (b) for varying or revoking any provision of the Regulations, whether contained in the said Schedule, or made as aforesaid, and that any Regulations made as aforesaid, shall, subject to the provisions of the said Act, have effect and be enforced in like manner as Regulations contained in the said Schedule:

AND WHEREAS the powers of the Civil Authority have been delegated by the Minister of Home Affairs under Section 1 of the Civil Authorities (Special Powers) Act (Northern Ireland), 1933, by Order dated 10th June, 1940, to the Parliamentary Secretary of the Ministry of Home Affairs:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, William Lowry, K.C., M.P., Parliamentary Secretary of the Ministry of Home Affairs for Northern Ireland, do make the following Regulation for making further provision for the preservation of the Peace and Maintenance of Order, and the said Regulation shall be enforced and have effect in like manner as Regulations contained in the said Schedule, and the said Regulation now made, and the Regulations contained in the said Schedule shall have effect and be construed as if the said Regulation now made formed part of said Regulations in said Schedule, that is to say:—

1B (1) On and after the 1st day of July, 1940, any person who shall have entered Northern Ireland (whether before the making of this Regulation or subsequently) from any place other than another part of the United Kingdom shall, if so required by any Police Officer or Constable, satisfy the Police Authorities that his presence in Northern Ireland is not for any purpose detrimental to the preservation of the peace and the maintenance of order in Northern Ireland.

(2) If any person fails to comply with such requirement he shall be guilty of an offence against these Regulations unless he proves to the satisfaction of the Court before which he may be charged:—
(a) that his presence in Northern Ireland is not in fact for any purpose detrimental to the preservation of the peace and the maintenance of order in Northern Ireland; and
(b) that when required to satisfy the Police Authorities that his presence in Northern Ireland was not for any purpose detrimental to the preservation of the peace and the maintenance of order in Northern Ireland, he did everything in his power to comply with such requirement.

(3) Upon any prosecution for a breach of this Regulation, a certificate, purporting to be signed by a District Inspector of Police, or a Police Officer of higher rank, and certifying that the person charged was duly required to satisfy the Police Authorities pursuant to this Regulation that his presence in Northern Ireland was not for any purpose detrimental to the preservation of the peace and the maintenance of order in Northern Ireland and that he failed to comply with such requirement, shall be sufficient prima facie evidence of the facts so certified.

(4) The Regulation 1A (2) dated the 22nd June, 1940, is hereby revoked.

Given under my hand at Belfast this 29th day of June, 1940.

WILLIAM LOWRY,
Parliamentary Secretary of the Ministry of Home Affairs for Northern Ireland.

MONDAY, JULY 1, 1940.

The Threat from Japan

Japan, as we anticipated last week, is taking advantage of the war to increase her demands upon Great Britain. Some days ago she issued a peremptory demand that the British Government no longer should permit war materials to be sent to Marshal Chiang Kai-shek's armies via either Burma or Hong Kong. A similar Note already had been sent to French Indo-China, and had been reinforced by the arrival of a Japanese army on the colony's borders—ostensibly to cut communications with China, but, in the opinion of most observers, for other and more sinister purposes as well. So far there has been no direct threat to Burma, but Hong Kong is taking no chances. It is surrounded on all sides by Japanese troops, and the Governor has ordered that, from this morning, all European women and children must be evacuated to places of safety. The "evacuees" will travel first to Manila, in the Philippines, whence they will be transferred, perhaps, to somewhere further afield—possibly, to Australia. Meanwhile, the colony is concluding its preparations for defence. The need is urgent, inasmuch as the Japanese already have unearthed a fresh source of complaint against Hong Kong, which, as they allege, will authorise them to dispense with the twenty-four hours' notice of military operations that had been agreed upon two years ago between Great Britain and Japan. In addition to the existing charge—that Hong Kong permitted the transit of war materials to the Chinese Nationalists—the Japanese now assert that the British authorities have betrayed to Chiang Kai-shek the Japanese strategy for operations near the town of Paoan. It is not easy to understand how such information could have come into Hong Kong's possession; indeed, the whole charge smacks more strongly of an old-fashioned secret service play than of common-sense. In these days, however, any pretext is good enough for war, and the Japanese evidently are resolved to press home their advantage at Hong Kong. Twenty years ago—even ten years ago—the Japanese would have been extremely shy of trying conclusions with Great Britain; but, now that she has her hands full with the European war, they feel that their hour has struck. Britain clearly cannot afford to reinforce her fleet in Chinese waters: it is enough for any one nation to protect the North Sea and the Mediterranean at the same time.

It is possible that Japan will be content to "immobilise" Hong Kong, the Burma Road and French Indo-China. It is possible, but not likely. She may refrain for a matter of weeks, or even of months, from a direct assault; but the assault is bound to come sooner or later. Japan never has made any secret of her imperial ambitions. Her purpose is to obtain supremacy over the whole western seaboard of the Pacific, and, as matters are at present, there is no nation except the United States that can stop her. Russia seems to have patched up a sort of armistice with the Japanese—presumably, because she finds metal more attractive in the Balkans—and the Chinese Nationalists, if deprived of arms from foreign sources, will not be able to take the offensive against the invader, even if they contrive to retain their hold upon the great hinterland. Mr. Hachiro Arita, the Japanese Foreign Minister, issued a statement of his country's policy on Saturday. It has been described—though we do not know whether the phrase originates with Mr. Arita or not—as "a Monroe Doctrine for the Far East." Japan, he says, has a "mission and responsibility as a stabilising force in East Asia," where she will permit one dominant Power, and one only. There must be no transferring of British or French interests there to any other foreign Power—in effect, to the United States. It remains to be seen whether the Americans will accept this warning with becoming humility. One of the mild "sensations" of last week was the "disappearance" of a strong American Fleet, which left port for an unknown destination. We do not think that the Japanese would care to try conclusions with the United States. They are a powerful nation, but they are wearied by several years of war against Marshal Chiang Kai-shek's armies; their standard of living has been depressed below its normally low level by the need to finance that war, and their foreign markets, with the exception of China, no longer exist. On the other hand, American "isolationism" is not confined to the war in Europe; there are many Americans who would prefer that their country should let Japan take whatever she wants in Asia—even at the cost of American security—rather than declare war upon her. The Japanese may be prepared to take a gamble on this attitude. They have taken gambles in the past, and generally have won.

Crossing the Border

Holiday resorts in Northern Ireland took a second severe blow to their hopes of a prosperous season this year when the Northern Ireland Ministry of Home Affairs issued its drastic "no entry" Order on Saturday week. The precaution contained in the Order seemed unnecessarily thorough, for it forbade any person whomsoever to enter the six counties unless his business was of national importance to Great Britain. The hotel keepers, the caterers, and all those thousands of people in a dozen walks of life who depend on the tourist trade for their livelihood were, as we say, deeply troubled by the announcement; but their number was few by comparison with the great mass of people living in the twenty-six counties, the thousands of law-abiding people who were to be cut off completely for the duration of the war from parents, homes, families and friends in Northern Ireland. There was immediate consternation on both sides of the border. The Order was vaguely worded. Nobody, not even the Royal Ulster Constabulary, knew exactly what it meant. Newspapers made an attempt to translate it for their readers, but hardly any of them arrived at the same conclusion. Some saw in it a complete ban on travel between North and South. Some felt that it would apply only to persons who might be suspected of seditious activities; and between the two extremes was a whole throng of other guesswork interpretations. After a week of chaos, however, during which multitudes of people, fearing the worst, were making hurried last visits to their relatives and friends in the North, a new and more reasonable Order was issued on Saturday. Under this Order definite—and rational—regulations are laid down. Any visitor henceforward must satisfy the Northern authorities, if so requested, that his visit is not for any purpose which would be detrimental to the maintenance of peace and public order in the province. He must have in his possession either some form of identity paper which will satisfy the police, a valid passport, a travel permit card, or an identity card issued by the Royal Ulster Constabulary. The identity card will be issued by the R.U.C. only to persons known to them, and anybody who wishes to obtain such a card should make application, therefore, to some police station where he is known in Northern Ireland. Provided that visitors are known to be law-abiding and can produce on demand one of the four recognised forms of identity, it appears that there will be no restriction on travel between Eire and Northern Ireland. Contrary to general opinion of a week ago, we learn now that there is no desire or intention to place obstacles in the way of bona fide travellers or holiday-makers who wish to enter the six counties. The confusion is over now, and we all know where we stand; but it is a great pity—a scandal, indeed—that Saturday's Order was not issued a week ago, and that thousands of people should have been put casually and thoughtlessly to so much trouble and unnecessary distress.

Late Hours

It was Tom Moore, we believe, who suggested that the best of all ways "to lengthen our days" was to take a bit off the night, and his fellow-countrymen never have accepted advice with greater alacrity and enthusiasm. Mr. Willet had not been born in those days and "summer time" had not been dreamed of by anybody, but the Irish people made their own "summer time" and carried it nearer to mid-winter than has been done by any recent legislation stimulated by war conditions. That the old custom still prevails has been shown by recent cases at Ennis District Court which prompted District Justice Gleeson to remark: "I do not think anybody goes to bed in Ennis at a proper hour." In proof of his theory he mentioned that at that day's sitting of the Court they had one man who was out with a gun (for which he had no permit) at 4.15 a.m., a young lady out with an unlighted bicycle at 2.30 a.m., and a number of persons who were charged with having been drunk and fighting in the streets between 2 and 3 a.m. Certainly there does seem to be some reason for assuming that Ennis has its own night life and that the citizens are accustomed to sounds of revelry in "the wee sma' oors ayant the twal'," as Mr. Robert Burns so brightly puts it. We fear, however, that the capital of the "Banner County" is no exception to the general rule that prevails in this country to-day. Modern conditions, and especially the improved easy methods of transport, virtually have wiped out any semblance of curfew that ever existed in times of peace. When the last trams for North and South left the Nelson Pillar not later than 11.30 p.m. Dublin retired to rest much earlier—at least, it went home much earlier. With the coming of the 'buses, with places of entertainment remaining open until eleven o'clock, and restaurants not closing until midnight, cheap transport became available until after twelve had struck, and the streets are fairly well filled until the very last 'bus has disappeared. Visitors who consider our business methods dilatory have not hesitated to suggest that a large section of the population makes up for arrears of sleep after it gets to the office, but it may be that we have become accustomed to doing with less sleep than our fathers. "Summer time" has been blamed for keeping children out late, but any Dubliner knows that even in winter the little ones are to be seen playing around the streets until twelve o'clock. In some of the new "working-class" areas built by the Corporation the little grocery shops remain upon until "to-morrow" has arrived, and tiny children can be seen by the score bringing home bread and other provisions even at that hour—which argues a strange form of "domestic economy." Whatever the cause, it appears to be clear that "summer time" has nothing to do with our nocturnal habits.

25 YEARS AGO

From the Irish Times, 1st July, 1915.

German Socialists and Peace.

The German Socialist Organisation, replying to Dr. Delbreuck's statement in the Prussian Diet that the Socialists would not be urging peace if they had the true interest of the Fatherland at heart, has issued a statement saying:—"The masses want peace. They did not want war in the first place; they have nothing to gain by war. Win or lose, they only stand to suffer. For nearly a year war fury has raged over the world, hundreds of thousands have been lost, irreplacable results of culture have been destroyed in almost every country in Europe, and a fearful destruction of the people's strength has taken place. Need and want accompany the distress laid upon the people." The statement added that the masses in all the belligerent countries wanted peace.

FROM "THE TIMES"

(BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT.)

THE NEW EUROPE

In a leading article to-day, The Times remarks:—The anniversary of the signature of the Versailles Treaty passed at the week-end, unhonoured and almost unnoticed. Twenty years of disillusionment and crisis have quenched the facile idealism, and no less facile optimism which marked the end of the last war, and have encouraged the cynic to see in the persent war nothing more than a clash of rival imperialisms, struggling for the mastery. This view is not, however, shared by the great masses of people in this country, or by their friends abroad. Inexorable events have thrust into the background the discussions about war aims which were so popular in the first months of the war. That is necessary and right. The Prime Miniter expressed the mood of the nation, when he declared that our only present war aim is victory. Nevertheless, the British will to victory is still bound up with the conviction that our war aims stand on a different plane from those of the enemy, and that victory for our arms will point the way to a new social and international order in Europe. . . .

This country abates, and will abate, nothing of its traditional support of the right of small nations to pursue and cherish, in security and independence, there own way of life. But the conception of the small national unit not strong enough for an active rôle in international politics, but enjoying all the prerogatives and responsibilities of sovereignty, has been rendered obsolete by modern armaments and the scope of modern warfare. The freedom and self-government of national communities in Europe will need other defences and a broader foundation in the future. Economics reinforce the same lesson. Europe can no longer afford a multiplicity of economic units, each maintaining its independent economic system behind a barbed wire entanglement of tariffs, quotas, exchange restrictions and barter agreements. Probably the gravest error of the last peace settlement was that it encouraged disintegration at a time when integration was already the crying need. The new order in Europe must seek to create new ties, not to dissolve old ones; to build, not to break up.

OLD DUBLIN SOCIETY

VISITS TO TWO COLLEGES

Two old Dublin residences which now are colleges—Drumcondra House (All Hallows College) and Belvedere House (St. Patrick's Training College)—were visited by members of the Old Dublin Society on Saturday last.

Drumcondra House is one of the best preserved specimens of early Georgian mansions in Dublin. Its last occupant before it became a missionary college was General Sir Guy Campbell, a son-in-law of Lord Edward Fitzgerald. It was from the grounds of Belvedere House in 1812 that an unsuccessful attempt to cross the Irish Sea in a balloon was made.

The members were welcomed at All Hallows by the President, the Very Rev. T. O'Donnell, C.M., and at St. Patrick's Training College by the President of that institution, the Very Rev. James O'Doherty. Alderman Tom Kelly, T.D., thanked both presidents on behalf of the Society.

LONDON LETTER

WEEK'S BUSINESS IN PARLIAMENT

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
SUNDAY NIGHT.

MANY members of the House of Commons hope that Mr. Churchill will be able to make a statement on the progress of the war. There is great anxiety as to the future of the French Navy. The prolonged silence is taken to mean that it will obey the commands of the Pétain Government and agree to immobilisation and internment, although this may not apply to all of the French naval units. It is by no means certain, however, that Mr. Churchill will speak on Thursday as expected. If he should find it possible to do so, however, his speech may be followed by a secret sitting, when the matter of supply could be reviewed. The German occupation of France has made an immense difference to British supplies for the prosecution of the war, and it is generally appreciated that production must be increased even more than it has been as yet. On Tuesday the House of Commons will discuss plans for the evacuation of children to the Dominions, and on Wednesday a number of miscellaneous bills will be advanced a stage.

Big Rise in Note Circulation

The active note circulation of the Bank of England is rising steadily week by week. It now has reached the enormous total of £602,153,569, an advance of £13,000,000 in a week and of £55,000,000 in five weeks. The notes now in circulation have a value of more than £100,000,000 above the total at this time last year. Withdrawals of cash are accounted for to some extent by the large movement of population in the evacuation scheme, while the higher wages now paid in the various industries engaged on war work have necessitated larger sums of money being used, the increases since the beginning of the war involving the disbursement of an additional £2,000,000 a week in wages. Another reason for the marked increase in note circulation is the preference shown by certain firms for the making of payments in cash instead of by cheque, even though the amounts involved are above those normally settled by means of cash. This is due to a desire to relieve the banks of some of the additional work involved in the keeping of double accounts. All bank transactions now are recorded in duplicate, and copies are despatched to custodian branches, where they are held in case a branch might suffer damage in an air raid.

War Hits the Thoroughbred

The war has brought about a marked decline in the value of the thoroughbred horse, and there has been an almost general slump in bloodstock prices. Three racehorses, which cost originally 930 guineas, fetched in the market recently no more than 37½ guineas between them. Valuable horses are being sold for a fifth of their pre-war prices. Many have been shot, because the owners cannot afford to keep them. The outlook for blood-stock breeding after the war is considered to be black. Breeding in Normandy, where most of France's best racehorses are bred has stopped since the German invasion, and many famous French strains are ended. Information has reached breeders in this country that a number of German thoroughbreds have been shot owing to lack of fodder. English trainers have been virtually ruined, since American owners who were keeping horses here have withdrawn them to the United States because there is no racing in this country, and the safety of the horse no longer can be guaranteed. Ireland is the only country which has a good market for horses.

Higher Wages

According to statistics prepared by the British Ministry of Labour, more than six million workpeople have had weekly wage increases during the five completed months of this year, and since the beginning of the war more than fourteen million workers have had their pay increased, the amount involved being over £2,000,000 a week. During last week a million people had their wages advanced, the industries affected being coal miners in Northumberland, South Derbyshire, Nottingham, Leicestershire and in Scotland, while women and girls engaged in several industries have benefited. There has been a fairly general increase in wages, and most of the industries engaged on war work now have higher wage rates than those paid a year ago.

Maps for the Blind

The blind, who must be as much concerned as other people in the course of the war, are being provided with maps prepared by Mr. J. R. Emblem, Braille Editor of the National Institute for the Blind. Embossed maps have been produced for distribution, and new ones are being made as rapidly as circumstances change the scene of war. The latest map deals with the Mediterranean, and one showing the position of France is in course of preparation. Towns and countries are marked by Braille letters, and rivers are shown by dots, gradually increasing in size as the sea is approached. The maps are accompanied by a key, which explains what everything means.

IRISHMAN'S DIARY

Politics at Cork Hill

Is Dublin's City Hall to be the last stronghold of political party devotees? My question is provoked by reliable rumours of preparations for to-night's meeting to elect a Lord Mayor for the coming year and by the practical certainty that Dublin's City Fathers—who are, or surely should be, chosen for their qualities as municipal administrators—will muster under Fianna Fail and Fine Gael flags in support of rival party candidates without regard to personal fitness to be Chief Magistrate of the capital city. At any time this is an absurd proceeding, but surely never more so than at the moment, when national dangers have gone far to abate party regimentations and hostilities at Leinster House.

I gather, however, that the last word as to who will be Lord Mayor will not be spoken by party organisers. In the middle of the party see-saw are six or seven "independents." Being in a position to tip the scales, they are the really responsible parties concerned, and I am told that their personal popularity has been correspondingly marked during the past few days.

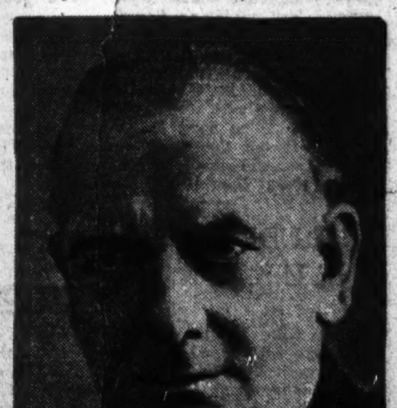
Independents Hold Balance

The probability, I understand, is that the successful candidate will have a majority of not more than one or two votes. With Labour members in the Fianna Fail lobby and three or four real Independents in opposition, the chances of victory promise to recall the occasion on which the absence of the late Alderman Jinks settled the question of what party would secure the sweets of office in Government Buildings.

This column abjures party politics; but I don't think the rule is infringed when I invoke a plague on both of the houses that cannot find some means of selecting Governments and civic dignatories without resort to methods that are more redolent of the roulette table than of representative assemblies.

A Courageous Councillor

I am told that Labour's vote may bar the way of one candidate, not because of his personal merits, but for the reason that he had the courage to be the ratepayers' protagonist in resisting the efforts of a particular group to hold the citizens to ransom.



Because Councillor Sean Milroy stood—with the City Manager—in the breach against demands that could not even be defended by other unions is he now to be debarred from a position which—as chairman of the General Purposes Committee and a citizen of exceptional culture and public spirit—he is eminently fitted to occupy?

Whereas I hold no brief against the present Lord Mayor—whose long indisposition was deeply regretted by every decent citizen—I cannot but express the hope that Independents who are really independent will refuse to take part in penalising a colleague because he had the courage to resist unfair and unreasonable demands.

G. N. R. Changes

How times flies! The announcement that Mr. P. A Foley to-day becomes Traffic Superintendent of the G.N.R., reminded me that I referred in this column to his appointment to take charge of the company's goods traffic in the Dublin district. As this appointment synchronised with a prolonged strike among the company's employés, I was able to fix its date, and discovered to my great surprise that it was almost eight years ago.

Now, on the retirement of Mr. J. H. Scott—to whom I wish many years of well-earned leisure—Mr. Foley becomes chief of the department in which he was for long familiar to travellers, in association with the late R. J. Moore and W. J. Horne.

Although tradition is respected in his official title as Dublin District Superintendent, I am told that his new responsibilities will extend to three Ulster counties, and will embrace the organisation of rail and road transport of both passengers and goods in Eire.

Experience and Driving Force

I find it difficult to credit the fact that Mr. Foley has had three and a-half decades of railway experience. When we recently chatted over railway vicissitudes and prospects, his fresh outlook and optimism gave no hint of a nineteenth-century birth certificate.

Discussing future relationships between the steel rail and the open road, I was interested to discover a railway specialist who is fully alive to the virtues of "door-to-door" transport. He believes firmly in the railway as the backbone of a national transport network, and seems not only to be receptive of new ideas, but to have clearly-cut conceptions of how they can be put into practice for the benefit of shareholders and their patrons alike.

Taking over his new duties in present conditions of low visibility, his task is no enviable one; but, with old and trusted colleagues as his deputies—Mr. T. Carton as Goods and Passenger Agent, and Mr. H. Evans as his chief assistant—many difficulties are likely to give way to an unusual combination of experience with driving force.

So my congratulations and best wishes to all concerned!

Ruin Rather Than Surrender

MR. CHAMBERLAIN ON AN INVASION

MR. CHAMBERLAIN, in a broadcast last night, which was relayed throughout North America, reaffirmed the unity of the Cabinet and the nation. "We would rather go down to ruin than admit the domination of the Nazis," he declared.

"The first thing I want to say to you to-night," said Mr. Chamberlain, "is that all the members of the War Cabinet are working together in complete harmony and agreement. Anyone who lends himself to German propaganda by listening to idle tales about disunion among us, or who imagines that any of us would consent to enter upon peace negotiations with the enemy, is just playing the Nazi game.

THE RED ADVANCE IN RUMANIA

Fighting on the Banks of a River

RUSSIANS ACCUSED OF DESPOTISM

German-owned Goods Seized

THE seizure of German-owned goods in Bessarabia, with the possibility of Soviet-German complications, was reported in Bucharest last night. Russia has also seized large wheat and corn crops—the only bumper crops in the Balkans this year—by her occupation.

In Budapest it was stated that Germany had placed large contracts for the production of vegetable oil seeds in Bessarabia—which she, presumably, will not get now.

Rumanian newspapers yesterday, with Government approval, published despatches stating that the Russians had advanced beyond the agreed boundaries.

The Rumanian General Staff also reported "local incidents" during the occupation. Incidents, it was stated, had occurred, because in some places the Russian advance had passed the retreating Rumanians.

It was stated in some of the reports reaching Bucharest that when the Russians crossed the River Pruth at several points the Rumanians turned on them and threw them back with losses. Reinforcements were brought up, and the Russians again advanced and captured a Rumanian general.

Other swift action by the Rumanian Government included the mining of the approaches to the Black Sea port of Constanza and the Danube port of Sulina, and preparation of plans for moving the Government to the foothills of Western Rumania if necessary.

The Rumanian Parliamentary session, fixed for to-day, has been postponed until Wednesday.

"OVERSTEPPING THE MARK"

ASSOCIATED PRESS.

BUCHAREST, Sunday.

The Rumanian Black Sea port of Constanza and the Danube port of Sulina were mined to-day by the Rumanian Navy, Bucharest newspapers report. They also state that Russian forces had advanced over the old Rumanian frontier in many places.

The reports, printed with Government approval, stated that the Russians had advanced beyond the agreed boundaries. They stated that Russian troops had advanced as far south as Dorothoi, in Old Rumania, but whether they had retired from this point could not be ascertained.

PARACHUTE TROOPS

The Soviet occupation generally is proceeding rapidly, and it was reported that parachute troops had landed at Bolgrad, in South Bessarabia. This was confirmed from Moscow in a statement by the official Soviet Tass News Agency. German circles in Bucharest reported that the Russians had advanced to the following points by noon to-day—Strojinet and Herta, in North Bukovina; Nova Selica and Lipkany, on the River Prut, south of Hotin. Motorised units were said to have reached the Prut River, 35 miles south-east of Mogilv.

The Rumanian maritime authorities have ordered vessels heading for Constanza, or up the Danube, to announce their arrival by radio, and wait eight miles outside Constanza, or five miles outside Sulina, for a pilot boat to conduct them through the minefields.

It was announced that traffic in the minefields would move only in daylight and in good weather.

GERMANS FLEE TO OLD RUMANIA

The newspaper announcement that Russian forces had gone over the agreed limit caused dismay in Bucharest. The pro-German newspaper, Curentul, reported that in many occupied towns of Bessarabia and Bukowina, the Russians had imprisoned Government officials and leading citizens.

The Curentul added: "Dr. Borneski, leader of the German community in Bessarabia, was informed by a secret emissary that he would be assassinated by the Russian occupying troops. He any many Germans fled to Old Rumania and turned themselves over to Government officials."

The newspaper reported that Dr. Flonder, the Governor of Cernauti (Czernowitz) had been arrested on Friday night and that many banks had been robbed. It condemned the "despotism of the Russian troops who forgot their promises and all their humanity."

GERMAN-OWNED GOODS

REPORTED SEIZURES BY RUSSIA

All Bucharest newspapers to-day were ordered to print a Rome dispatch saying that during the evacuation of Cernauti Jews showed their hatred of Rumanians by throwing stones at Rumanian troops. They also published a letter from Transylvanian leaders to King Carol pledging their lives for their country's honour.

The seizure of German owned goods in Bessarabia, with the possibility of Soviet-German complications, was also reported. At Chilia Harbour, on the Danube, a German grain company, the Dunarex, had a large quantity of wheat ready for export. It was seized by a Soviet Committee. At Baltzi 2,000 railway trucks of sugar ready for export to Germany were held up by the population.

PLAN TO MOVE THE GOVERNMENT

BUCHAREST, Sunday.

Several Ministers met to-night to plan the transfer of the Government to the foothills of Western Rumania if necessary.

CROPS COLLECTED

BUDAPEST, Sunday.

By occupying Bessarabia now Russia is collecting bumper wheat and maize crops, which contrast with the crop conditions throughout the remainder of the Balkans. Late frosts, followed by torrential rains and floods, reduced the 1940 yield of wheat and maize in Hungary, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and Old Rumania by an estimated 35 per cent.

In Bessarabia Germany had placed large contracts for the production of vegetable oil seeds. Prevailing crop conditions are expected to bring a precarious food situation to the Balkans during the winter, especially if exports to Germany must be continued at the old level.

RUSSIA'S RAPID ADVANCE

FIGHTING ALONG THE PRUTH REPORTED

The Rumanian General Staff issued a communique on Sunday night stating: "Local incidents occurred between Russian and Rumanian troops during the Soviet occupation."

The communiqué lacked details, but casualties were reported on both sides.

Incidents were caused, the communiqué added, because in some directions rapid units of the Russian forces exceeded their rhythm of occupation and passed the retreating Rumanians.

One incident was stated to have occurred at Bolgrad, where Russian parachute troops landed. The use of parachutists was regarded as evidence that Russia was in extreme haste to take occupation.

GENERAL CAPTURED

Reports arriving at military headquarters here late to-night stated that the Russians captured a Rumanian general in one of the outbreaks of fighting.

It was stated that the Rumanians turned to fight the Russians when the invaders crossed the River Prut at many places in Bukowina. The Russians were reported to have been thrown back with considerable losses, but they brought reinforcements and again crossed the river, capturing the general.

A series of bitter battles along the River Prut were also reported.

Fighting, apparently, ensued over the interpretation and meaning of "Northern Bukowina." The Rumanian view is that Northern Bukowina ends on the Prut. It is believed in some quarters that the Rumanian Minister to Moscow failed to advise his Government of the Russian demarcation line.

BATTLE CONTINUED

General Uloreacu was late to-night reported to be refusing to accept the Rumanian War Ministry's order to retreat, and to be continuing the battle along the River Prut.

THE TIME FOR EVACUATION

BUCHAREST, Sunday.

The Rumanian Government in an official communiqué to-night announced that evacuation of Bessarabia and Northern Bukowina would end on July 3.

This was interpreted as meaning that Russia had granted an extension of time, as operations were originally scheduled to end on July 2.

"WE ARE READY IF ATTACKED"

TURKISH SPOKESMAN'S WARNING

PRESS ASSOCIATION FOREIGN SPECIAL.

ANKARA, Sunday.

"We are not aggressive—not desirous of adventure, but if at any time we are attacked we are ready for battle," said Cevdet Kerim Incedan, a spokesman of the Peoples' Party in an address to Parliament last night.

The Turkish Fatherland, he said, was "a shirt cut for the Turkish nation from the narrowest cloth, and no thread of this could be spared for anyone else."

BRITISH SUBMARINE LOST

The British Admiralty on Saturday issued the following communiqué:—The Secretary of the Admiralty regrets to announce that H.M. submarine, Grampus—Lieutenant-Commander C. A. Rowe, R.N.—is now considerably overdue, and must be considered to have been lost. The next-of-kin have been informed.

The Grampus, completed in 1937 at a cost of £408,000, was the third of the mine-layer submarines of the Porpoise Class, and was a vessel of 1,520 tons, with a speed of 16 knots. She had a complement of 55. She was launched at Chatham in 1936. She had one four-inch gun, two smaller guns and six torpedo-tubes.

"RUMANIA WILL RALLY"

Radio Speaker's Confidence

THE RED ARMY'S ADVANCE

THE precautionary general mobilisation of the Rumanian Army is going on calmly without affecting the public services, which are continuing to function normally, according to the Rumanian semi-official News Agency.

Confidence is reviving, a Bucharest dispatch states concerning the attitude of Hungary and Bulgaria, who appear to have postponed their revisionist ambitions. The Red Army advancing to occupy Bessarabia and the northern part of Bukowina have have been assisted by parachute troops. The parachutists have occupied the town of Bolgrad in Southern Bessarabia, and several miles of the district of Reni, the Soviet Tass Agency announced to-day.

"The advance of the Soviet troops into Bessarabia and Northern Bukowina is proceeding according to plan," the Tass Agency added.

RUSSIANS WITHDRAWAL

The column of Soviet tanks which, according to the official Italian News Agency, had advanced south of Herta in the department of Dorohoi over the line stipulated in the Russian Note has now rectified their mistake and withdrawn.

The dispatch quotes M. Sidorivici, Rumanian Minister of Propaganda, as having informed the Press that the cession of the territory claimed by the Soviet was completed at noon on Saturday. The evacuation of the Rumanian population was being carried out in accordance with plans which had been drawn up. A denial is given in official Rumanian quarters to reports published abroad, according to which the Soviet Government had demanded bases on the Danube and the Black Sea. A denial is also given to alleged incidents on the Hungarian and Bulgarian frontiers.

RUMANIA'S PATIENCE

"Rumania's right has been trampled on, and Rumanians have had no option but to yield to superior force," said a Rumanian radio commentator on Saturday night.

Rumania's foremost virtue, he said, was patience, which she had shown throughout eighteen centuries of her existence in moments of trial and tribulation. Frontiers could not be determined by human action, even if supported by superior force, but expressed the eternal will of God.

"More than ever the Rumanian nation will rally round its king and flag," the speaker added. "The people have confidence that justice will prevail in the end."

TOWARDS GERMANY

A section of Rumanian opinion declares that it is necessary that the country shall satisfy the Russian demands temporarily, and rapidly reinforce Rumania's political, economical and military collaboration with Germany.

The newspaper Curentul, which has German sympathies, draws a conclusion from the situation which is clearly in support of a reorientation of Rumanian policy towards Germany.

It expresses the hope that the "wrong" done to Rumania will soon be righted with the help of Germany.

Soviet Russian comment, given in the newspaper Izvestia, says a dispatch from Moscow, is that the settlement of the questions of Bessarabia and Bukowina between the Soviet Union and Rumania, after twenty-two years of conflict, is a contribution to the cause of peace.

"The settlement is all the more valuable," it continues, "because by its nature and history this conflict was a serious obstacle to the establishment of good neighbourly relations between the two countries."—Reuter.

WEEK-END RAIDS ON BRITAIN

TWO DEAD AND EIGHT INJURED

REMARKABLE escapes of people living in an English Midland town, where houses were damaged in Saturday night's raids, were described yesterday.

Raiders were over North-East, South-East and South-West England, the East Midlands and Scotland.

OFFICIAL STATEMENT

The British Air Ministry and the Ministry of Home Security issued the following communiqué yesterday:—

"Enemy aircraft crossed the south and east coasts last night and dropped bombs at a number of points. Our fighter patrols were active, and the enemy were nowhere able to deliver a heavy attack.

"In one Midland town casualties were caused by bombs which fell in the residential quarter. Other attacks, which were made at scattered points in the East Midlands, in Southern England, and near the Bristol Channel were ineffective.

"A town in Scotland was also attacked with high explosive and incendiary bombs, but neither damage nor casualties are reported.

"The total casualties so far known are two killed and eight injured."

A ten years old boy, James Shaw, was killed instantly; a man died from shock, and several people were injured in the Midland town mentioned in the communiqué.

The boy who was killed was buried in wreckage, his mother was injured, but his father was unhurt.

Frederick Bailey (56), who lived some distance from the scene of this attack, died from shock.

A German aeroplane dropped six high explosive bombs and between 38 and 40 incendiary bombs in North-East Scotland early yesterday. No one was injured. All the incendiary bombs fell in fields, and no damage was done.

THIRTY-NINE KILLED

Thirty-nine lives were lost in the Channel Islands in Friday night's raids. Of these 29 occurred in Guernsey and 10 in Jersey.

MARSHAL BALBO KILLED

ROME REPORT ON HIS DEATH

BRITISH STATEMENT AND DENIAL

IT was officially announced in Rome on Saturday that Marshal Balbo, Governor-General of Libya, was killed on Friday in an air battle over Tobruk, the Italian naval and air base in Libya.

His death was announced in a special official communiqué issued in Rome, which said:—

"While flying over Tobruk during an enemy bombardment an aircraft piloted by Marshal Italo Balbo fell in flames. Balbo and the members of his crew perished.

"Flags of the armed forces of Italy are lowered as a sign of homage and high honour in memory of Italo Balbo, a volunteer in the Alpine forces in the World War, member of the quadrumvirate of the revolution, ocean flyer, marshal of the air, fallen in battle."

Nine occupants, including Signor Ferrara and Lieutenant Pilot Florio Gino, his nephew and brother-in-law respectively; the Italian Consul-General at Tripoli, and a crew of four are stated to have perished with him.

BRITISH STATEMENT

The British Foreign Office News Department last night stated: Careful investigation shows that no British aircraft were concerned in the crash of Marshal Balbo's machine.

It was stated in Cairo yesterday that the R.A.F. group concerned in an attack on Tobruk on Friday did not meet a large passenger-carrying 'plane such as the Marshal's.

A 'plane was seen burning on the ground on Friday but its type is not known. No pilot has reported having encountered a machine such as that piloted by Marshal Balbo.

MARSHAL ITALO BALBO.

Marshal Balbo, forty-four years old, was the creator of the Italian Air Force. He was one of the men who led the Blackshirts in their march on Rome on October 28, 1922. He was appointed Italian Air Minister in 1929.

OFFICERS' TRIBUTES

News of his death called forth tributes from R.A.F. officers and others in Cairo, who knew him well from his frequent visits to Egypt.

On the orders of the Duce, flags on all public buildings in Italy were flown at half-mast yesterday as a sign of mourning, and offices of Fascist organisations were draped in black.

Telegrams of sympathy, expressing admiration for the work of Marshal Balbo, have been sent by Herr Hitler, Herr Von Ribbentrop and Marshal Goering.

The Marshal organised a mass flight from Italy to America in 1933. He landed at Derry on the outward journey.

VISITORS TO THE NORTH

MODIFICATION OF REGULATION

TOURIST TRAFFIC UNAFFECTED

THE Minister of Home Affairs of Northern Ireland has had under consideration the Order issued on June 22, regarding the need for persons entering Northern Ireland to produce, on request, evidence that his visit was of national importance to the United Kingdom. In view of the hardships which would be occasioned to persons having legitimate reasons to visit Northern Ireland under this Order, he has decided to modify the regulation.

A new Order has, therefore, been issued, to come into operation to-day (Monday), which sets out that any person who shall have entered Northern Ireland, whether before the making of this regulation or, subsequently, from any place other than another part of the United Kingdom, shall, if so required by the police, satisfy them that his presence in Northern Ireland is for a purpose which is not detrimental to the preservation of the peace and to the maintenance of order in Northern Ireland.

IDENTITY

No permits to enter Northern Ireland are required, but every person of 14 years of age and upwards in Northern Ireland must have in his possession an approved document of identity, and must, on demand, produce such document to any police constable in uniform, if such person is normally resident outside the United Kingdom. He must also answer such questions as are necessary to establish the purpose of his visit.

The approved documents of identity are:

A.—An identity card, issued pursuant to the provisions of the National Registration Act, 1939.

B.—A valid passport.

C.—A travel permit card, issued by the United Kingdom, or Eire, authorities.

D.—A document of identity, issued by a head or other constable of the Royal Ulster Constabulary in charge of a station.

Persons visiting Northern Ireland, who are normally resident in places outside the United Kingdom, should take steps to provide themselves with one of the alternative documents indicated at B, C and D.

R.U.C.'S ROLE

Documents of identity under D will be issued only by the Royal Ulster Constabulary to persons known to them, and persons wishing to obtain such documents should, therefore, make application at the Royal Ulster Constabulary station where they are known.

Documents of identity under D will not be issued to persons in respect of whom identity cards under the National Registration Act, 1939, have been issued.

It will be seen from this registration that there is no desire or intention to interfere in any way with bona-fide holiday-makers from Eire who desire to spend their vacation in Northern Ireland.

FATAL ARKLOW ACCIDENT

Anthony Cahill, aged 28, of Mark street, Dublin, who was injured in a motoring accident at Ballyrichard, Arklow, during the week-end, died in Arklow Memorial Hospital yesterday.

THE DEFENCE OF ALL IRELAND

Lord Craigavon on Co-operation

READY TO SEE MR. DE VALERA, BUT—

VISCOUNT CRAIGAVON, speaking at an Orange gathering in County Down, referred at some length to the suggested co-operation of Northern Ireland with Eire in defence of the country.

He said: There are critics who would have the public believe that Ulster has not been pulling her full weight in responding to the demands made upon her by the Imperial Government. There could be no greater travesty of the facts.

CONTACTS WITH BRITAIN

She has faithfully honoured all the pledges I made on her behalf. Should the necessity arise our Ulster Defence Volunteers, merged within the final scheme of defence against Germany, will prove to be of inestimable value on every question of defence. There has been the closest contact between the imperial authorities and the Ulster Government.

We have been criticised in some quarters on the ground that we are relying on regiments from Great Britain for the defence of our shores. It seems to be forgotten that we are part of the United Kingdom, and that the distribution of His Majesty's forces is a matter for the military authorities; that our own Ulster regiments are playing their part elsewhere in the theatre of hostilities, and that we are raising locally a very large Ulster defence volunteer force to aid the regulars if invaders land upon our shores.

THE DAYS AHEAD

Both in food production and industrial output, said Lord Craigavon, there had been an enormous expansion in output, and he added that the days that lie ahead will be days of incessant effort, imposing a tremendous strain on their physical and mental stamina, their moral, their faith in such times of testing.

"The Ulsterman has never failed; he will not fail now."

IRISH UNITY

"SOMETHING SERIOUS IS AFOOT"

Turning to the question of a united Ireland, Lord Craigavon said:—If an All-Ireland Parliament (in which by representation Ulster loyalists would have been in a hopeless minority) had been in existence at the outbreak of hostilities, I am persuaded that Great Britain would have been faced with an all-Ireland neutrality to-day, and British troops would have been unable to land on Irish soil except by force. The situation created by this campaign for a united Ireland, intensified since the outbreak of war, has been made immeasurably more difficult by recent declarations of Mr. de Valera, and also by the speech of Mr. Sean T. O'Kelly, Vice-Premier of Eire, in the Dail on Wednesday, when he said: "If anybody can get rid of partition it will be this Government, and I am hopeful that we will. The matter is receiving attention. Those who run may read. It would not be wise to give any further information on this matter."

Later Mr. O'Kelly said: "I believe that de Valera will yet succeed."

"SINISTER EVIDENCE"

That speech said Lord Craigavon, clearly indicates that Mr. de Valera is once again blackmailing the British Government to end partition—and this at the very moment when the enemy is at our gates. It is sinister evidence that something serious is afoot. I wish, therefore, to declare that I will be no party, directly or indirectly, to any change in the Constitution conferred upon Northern Ireland, which assures us of full partnership in the United Kingdom and the British Empire.

Nevertheless, in the interests of both North and South, I am prepared to enter into the closest co-operation with Mr. de Valera on matters of defence, provided he takes his stand, as we are doing, on the side of Britain and the Empire, clears out the German and Italian representatives from Eire, and undertakes not to raise any issue of a constitutional nature.

I have never been a stumbling block, but I will never put my hand to any plan that would imperil the United Kingdom and the Empire.

NATIONALIST MEMBERS' MANIFESTO

LORD DUFFERIN'S VIEWS WELCOMED

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

BELFAST, Sunday.

The Nationalist members of the Northern Parliament and Senate, in a manifesto issued on Saturday night, stated that they cannot assist in any defence plan until there is a unified national defence for the whole country. They declare that the Northern Government has based its defence of the six partitioned counties on a sectarian and political basis, the force being composed of "B" Specials and Auxiliaries. The Nationalists, who were willing to assist in schemes to evacuate children, and other humanitarian measures, in case of necessity, could not co-operate with such a force.

Nevertheless, they welcomed the views of the Marquess of Dufferin and Ava as evidence of a more broad-minded approach to the problem, and declared that the British Government, in this crisis, could repeal partition in a day.

BELFAST WOMAN DETAINED

POLICE INQUIRIES INTO RECENT BANK RAIDS

A woman has been detained in Belfast by police who are investigating the three bank raids which took place in that city on last Friday.

A taxi-driver, W. Murray, said that three men called at the garage at which he was employed and asked for a car to go to a hospital about three miles outside Belfast. When they reached Great George's street, however, the car was stopped and he was ordered out and taken into a house in another street by two of the men, while the third drove off in the car.

A woman about 26 years of age was in the house, and made tea for them; she then took up some knitting, one of the men read a book, and the other kept Mr. Murray covered with a revolver. When the clock struck eleven he was told that he could go, and one of the men followed him as far as York street—a few hundred yards away.

Another taxi-driver, who was kidnapped on the same morning, was blindfolded in the Falls road district and taken into a house.

The cashier who was wounded in the raid on the Munster and Leinster Bank, Mr. T. J. Murray, was stated to be "fairly comfortable." During an operation surgeons removed three bullets from his neck.

NEW CLOUD IN FAR EAST

Japan Accuses Britain

ALLEGATIONS OF BETRAYAL

PRESS ASSOCIATION FOREIGN SPECIAL.

EUROPEAN women and children in Hong Kong are ready for the start to-day of compulsory evacuation from the colony, as a new cloud appeared in the Far East. The Japanese forces in South China accuse Britain of betraying Japanese strategy to Chiang Kai-shek.

With Japanese troops massed on the borders of Kowloon, British-leased territory on the mainland opposite Hong Kong, and other forces astride the road and rail routes from French Indo-China to China, Mr. Hachiro Arita, Japanese Foreign Minister, chose an appropriate moment to announce to the world his country's policy in the light of events in Europe.

Mr. Arita, formulating what might be called a Monroe Doctrine for the Orient, declared that Japan was paying serious attention to the repercussions of the European war in East Asia, including the South Seas, and added: "I desire to declare that the destiny of these regions—any development of them and any disposal of them—is a matter of grave concern for Japan in view of her mission and responsibility as a stabilising force in East Asia."

U.S. POSITION

There are strong indications in Washington, however, that the United States has no intention of concurring in this policy. The Administration has always opposed Japan's plans for a "new order" in Asia, and Government officials declare that there has been no change of attitude, in spite of world events. The Note sent to the Japanese Government on December 31st, 1938, stating that past and possible future "new situations" were the concern of the United States, remained a valid statement of U.S. policy.

Mr. Arita also declared that Japan was "determined to leave no stone unturned in eradicating all activities for the assistance of General Chiang Kai-shek."

The Japanese High Command, in a communiqué issued on Saturday, declared that their forces had occupied Chinese bases in the vicinity of Hong Kong, "thus blocking the supply routes from Hong Kong and being in a position to take any other action if necessary."

TO SAFER PLACES

The Hong Kong Government had already decided to use its emergency powers for the evacuation of European women and children, and the necessary order was published in the Government gazette on Saturday. Evacuation is to be completed by July 5. Evacuees will first go to Manila, being sent later probably to other destinations. Australia has offered to receive some. She is also taking some French women who are being evacuated in Dutch 'planes.

The latest Japanese allegation is contained in a Canton dispatch to the Domei Agency in Tokyo. It points out that under an arrangement to avoid disputes dating from November, 1938, the Japanese have given the British twenty-four hours' notice of military operations along the Anglo-Chinese border, but, in view of the alleged infringement, no longer feels under an obligation to do so.

DOCUMENTS

It is claimed that Chinese documents, including instructions from Chiang Kai-Shek, which were seized during operations near Pingshan, showed that the British authorities had betrayed the Japanese strategic plan for operations near Paoan, ten miles from Pingshan.

"Clearly quoting the British notice," the statement continues, "Chiang Kai-Shek in his instructions orders the local Chinese forces to strengthen their defence of Paoan against the Japanese advance. A similar fact was revealed as a result of a Japanese investigation made after the occupation of Paoan."

Meanwhile a storm which broke a drought of nearly two months has been welcomed at Chungking, Chiang Kai-Shek's capital, where it is hoped that it will bring a respite from the heavy Japanese air bombardment which has been continuous since May 6. In Saturday's raids, which damaged the University, set fire to a lumber yard on the banks of the Yangtse and sunk many junks, two Japanese bombers were brought down by Chinese fighters.

LINER RETURNS TO HONG KONG

HONG KONG, Sunday.

The sudden return here of the United States liner President Coolidge, which left this morning for Manila, has caused considerable speculation. The liner received instructions direct from Washington to return, presumably to remove Americans, but officials of the United States Consular service here meanwhile heard nothing. The liner is, therefore, standing by awaiting further instructions from Washington.

"A LAND OF MISERY AND DESPAIR"

AMERICAN IMPRESSIONS OF FRANCE

"TIMES" TELEGRAM.

NEW YORK, Sunday.

American correspondents who had fled from France describe it as "a land whose misery, devastation and distress cannot be imagined." There was not enough bread for refugees from the north. Hospitals were short of beds, bedding and medical supplies, and were hopelessly overcrowded. Thousands of homes were in ruins. Several million people were sleeping in sheds, in store houses, or in the streets and in the fields. There was no communication between towns. Thousands of parents had lost their children, and women had no way of knowing the fate of their husbands and sons who had fought in the Army. The industries, mostly in the north, were destroyed, or in the hands of the Germans.

Greater than the physical misery of the French was their despair about the future.

According to one well-informed correspondent, the majority of the French people are convinced that French democracy, as it was known before the war, will not survive, and that there will be a swing to the Left, or, more probably, to Nationalism.—(Copyright, per Press Association.)

BRITISH RAIDS IN ERITREA

PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL.

CAIRO, Sunday.

British patrol and mechanised units have continued to harass Italian concentrations near the Eritrean border with marked success, according to a Khartum despatch, quoted in an unofficial statement issued from General Headquarters to-day.

"In the Kassala area, in difficult country fringing the border, two of our light armoured fighting vehicles encountered two groups of enemy cavalry, 1,200 strong," the statement says. "Advancing towards them, the vehicles opened fire with machine-guns. The enemy cavalry panicked and scattered in all directions, taking cover in adjacent hills, and leaving 50 casualties behind.

"In the same area small detachments and units repeatedly entered Eritrean territory, encountering enemy patrols and inflicting casualties, without sustaining any."

THE GATE THEATRE

ENJOYABLE GARDEN PARTY

The Gate Theatre garden party, which is always a popular function with Dubliners, was held yesterday in the grounds of Grosvenor Park, Rathmines, the residence of the Earl and Countess of Longford.

Over five hundred people, including numerous theatrical and artistic personalities, were present, and the committee spared no efforts to ensure the success of the afternoon.

Various members of Longford Productions were in charge of the amusements, which included a bran dip, clock golf, Aunt Sally, and a dart board, while an enjoyable concert was given in an open-air theatre improvised for the occasion.

Other attractions included a cocktail bar and an American ice-cream bar and two palmists, and strawberries and cream were sold at a stall presided over by Mrs. Hugh Kennedy.

The Countess of Longford, who was chairman of the committee, wore a dusty pink tweed coat over a brightly-figured dress, and Lady Hemphill also wore a figured dress, bound with scarlet. She was accompanied by Miss Mollie O'Rorke, who had a suit of dark green silk with a cyclamen pattern and a cyclamen blouse.

Mrs. May Carey also wore cyclamen colour, with a smart black felt toque, trimmed with veiling, and Miss Vivienne Dillon was wearing a navy blue suit with wide white revers and a flat navy blue straw sailor hat.

Miss Jean Anderson was also helping, and she wore a full-skirted powder-blue crêpe dress with bishop sleeves and an embroidered belt, while Mrs. John Izon came in a powder-blue figured silk dress, with a navy blue sash.

The helpers and stallholders included:—Country Produce—Mrs. O'Neill and Mrs. Jones; Games—Miss Nancy Becker; Teas—Mrs. Connor and Mrs. McCarron; Cocktail Bar—Mrs. McCabe, Miss Molly Hungerford, Mrs. Kerry Reddin, Countess Taaffe, Mrs. E. Horsbrugh Porter, Miss Peggy Gough, Miss Pansy Grace, Miss Eileen Strickland, Miss Anne Mercer and Mrs. A. Horsbrugh Porter.

The concerts were organised by Mrs. Vere Hunt.

Among those present, in addition to members of the Gate Theatre companies, were:—The Earl of Longford, Lord Hemphill the Hon. Brigid Campbell, Count Taaffe, Mr. Anew McMaster, Mrs. Jean Coote Mrs. Reddin, Alderman Alfred Byrne, T.D., Mr. A. Horsbrugh Porter, Miss Lane Joynt, Mrs Shrady Post, Miss Joy Post, Mr. Alan Graves, Miss McNie Miss Maureen Naish Grey, Mrs. Hume Brett, Mr. J. J. Reddin, the Misses Yorke-Bell, Mrs. Florence Pielou, Miss Leslie Pielou, Mr. Chichester, Mr. Desmond Leslie, District Justice and Mrs. Reddin Miss Deirdre McDonagh, Mr. Harry Kernoff, Dr. Kerry Reddin, Mr. Simon Campbell, Mrs. Eileen Hooper, Miss Babs Henchie, Mr. Robert Greene, Mr. and Mrs. Sean Dorman, Miss M. de la Sales Magennis, Mr. Leo Whelan, R.H.A.; Mr. Jack Grene, Miss Veronica Magnier, Miss Raymond Jammet and Mr. Michael Murphy.

CRINKEN CENTENARY CELEBRATION

SUCCESSFUL FETE

A successful fête, in connection with the Crinken (Bray) centenary celebration, was held yesterday in the grounds of Woodbrook, Bray, by permission of Sir Stanley Cochrane and Mrs. Day.

Lieutenant-Colonel Lord Farnham, D.S.O., performed the opening ceremony.

Teas, ices and refreshments were served, and the numerous attractions included an American tennis tournament, a half-hour concert, and a children's fancy dress parade, in which there were over thirty competitors, the parade being organised by Mrs. R. Bland, and judged by the Viscountess Powerscourt, Lady Meriel Brabazon, and Miss Rosaleen Kenny.

A flower competition, organised by Mrs. Claude Riall and Miss Fowler, was judged by Lady Moore. The following, in addition to various well-known seed firms, presented prizes in the competition:—Miss Constance Rochfort, Mr. and Mrs. Rowan Beauchamp, Mrs. Louis Smith and Mrs. Werner.

The prize-winners were:—

Mixed Flowers—1, Mrs. Werner; 2, Mrs. Bland; 3, Miss L. Johnston. Victorian Posy—Mrs. D'Olier.

Floating Flowers in shallow bowl—1, Miss K. Scott; 2, Mrs. Werner.

Miniature Rock Garden—Mrs. T. Kennedy.

Special prizes for a flower arrangement in imitation of a well-known picture were awarded to Mrs. Werner and Miss Rosemary Riall, who chose Dutch pictures, and Mrs. Merrick Lloyd, a Richter study.

A special prize was awarded to Miss Archer for a Victorian posy, and Miss Jennifer Bland was the winner in the children's nosegay class.

"Lord Powerscourt's Own" pipe band played throughout the afternoon.

The principal stallholders included:—Ices—Miss Webster and Miss Barry. County Produce—Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Watson. Sweets—Mrs. C. Roper and Miss Gore. Cakes—Mrs. Campbell and Mrs. Wix. Tea—Mrs. Day, Mrs. Hutson, Mrs. Edgar Anderson, Mrs. Charters and Mrs. W. Cochrane.

ARCHBISHOP OF DUBLIN ON TERM "EVANGELICAL"

Preaching at a Centenary Service yesterday at Crinken Church, Bray, the Archbishop of Dublin said that that church had very definitely been connected with that outlook upon religion which was termed evangelical. The term "evangelical" was rather apt, like so many other splendid terms, to be used to-day in a party sense. We loved to label ourselves, and other people, and to be more interested in the label than in the flower of which the label gave only the name. In the true sense of the word "evangelical," emphasis was meant to be laid on the personal acceptance of the Gospel of Christ for our daily lives. The evangelical message to the Church was that, if the body of the Church was to be a living, spirit-filled body, fit for the work that God had for it to do, the individual members must be spirit-filled, too.

THEATRE ROYAL

On the stage at the Theatre Royal yesterday Olive Briggs, the celebrated soprano, gave another fine performance with an entirely new selection of songs. There was also a full variety show, with Niall Boden's two novelty presentations—"I Want to be an Actor" and the "Right or Wrong?" question test.

THE DUBLIN DOCKYARD

Alderman A. Byrne, T.D., writes:—I have read with interest the report of the Port and Docks Board meeting of Thursday, 27th instant, and note that some of the members resented my questions in An Dail concerning the reopening of the Dublin Dockyard—which has now been closed for nearly two years, and the closing of which resulted in depriving about 400 workers of their employment.

I have nothing to apologise for because of my questions in An Dail on the matter. All that I, and the workmen, know is that the yard is still closed and the men are idle. I am aware of the Government's anxiety to have the works reopened. I am aware, too, that Councillor James Larkin, the Labour Leader, and Councillor J. J. Byrne, B.L., two of the municipal representatives of the dock area, have made, and are still making, strenuous efforts, by speech and by pen, to have the yard reopened at an early date. I wish them and all the other parties interested in the matter every success in their efforts. The 400 former employés awaiting work will watch with more than a passing interest further developments.

The representatives of the men who asked me to raise the question in An Dail are grateful for the publicity you have given the matter.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE

without Calomel — and you'll jump out of bed in the morning full of vim and vigour

The liver should pour out two pints of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk, and the world looks punk.

Laxatives help a little, but a mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good old Carters Brand Little Liver Pills to get these two pints of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carters Brand Little Liver Pills. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 1/3 and 3/-

THE VETERAN CARS RAN!

PERIOD COSTUMES A FEATURE

TWENTY-FIVE COMPETITORS FINISH

FROM OUR MOTORING CORRESPONDENT.

THERE was a feeling that it might be difficult to infuse the usual spirit of gaiety and enthusiasm into the third veteran car run of the Leinster Motor Club. Such apprehensions proved to be unjustified, and the event was highly successful.

Almost as exciting as the cars were the costumes worn by the passengers, and, in the absence of Douglas McCrae's concert party, the humorous piece was done by the Strand Service Station's Sunbeam crew—a bridal group, complete with clergyman. Nearing the finish they shed a tyre at Ballsbridge, but disdained to stop the car, continuing the journey on the rim.

The most joyful car once again was J. Colley's Ford—a real Keystone Ford, slightly rustier than last year, and with an unnecessary gesture to comedy in the form of a watering can. There was a suggestion of period, too, about A. Leonard's 1911 Daimler. The very early group—some De Dions, an Argyle, a Rover and an M.M.C.—were such great little cars, notwithstanding their thirty-seven to forty years, that only their smallness and their highness and the costumes of their occupants segregated them from the modern cars they passed on the road out to Enniskerry. The greatest "crocks" on that road on Saturday were not in the run.

There were thirty-three entries, twenty-six starters from Donnybrook, and all except O'Clery's Arrol-Johnston, which had carburettor trouble in the first few miles, reached the finish at Ballsbridge. The awards were based on marks awarded for coachwork, costume, a parking test, a brake and acceleration test and closeness to schedule during the run.

RESULTS

Goff Cup (1900-1903)—A. R. W. Montgomery, M.M.C.

Finishers—D. Dickson, De Dion; T. Regan, Rover; S. L. Rudd, De Dion; and F. J. Ryder, Argyle.

Findlater Cup (1904-1909)—T. Stewart, De Dion.

ST. JOSEPH'S YOUNG PRIESTS' SOCIETY

400 DELEGATES AT ANNUAL CONGRESS

The fifth annual Congress of St. Joseph's Young Priests' Society (Vocational Branches), which was held yesterday at Balcamp Hall College, Dublin, was attended by four hundred delegates and members.

Mr. M. J. O'Neill, Chairman of the Vocational Branches' Committee, who opened the afternoon session, said that the organisation comprised thirteen branches, with a membership of thirty thousand.

The Very Rev. Canon McMahon, P.P., Clontarf, who presided, said that to-day there was greater need for the mobilisation of spiritual forces than for man-power.

The Very Rev. Dr. M. P. Cleary, O.P., Dublin, read a paper on "Active Service," in which he said that the time had come for more intensified missionary activity.

Senator Sean Campbell dealt with the support which the Society received from the working classes, and said that he looked forward to the day when they should have in it a real vocational organisation, in which every Catholic would take part.

The Rev. A. Gwynn, S.J., said that Ireland was becoming more and more mission-minded.

The Rev. P. McKevitt, D.Ph., St. Patrick's College, Maynooth, read a paper on "Christianity; the Salvation of the Social Order," in which he said that the real obstacle to social reform was a difficulty of the moral order. People, he said, were unwilling to make sacrifices.

THE QUESTION OF RACE

ARCHDEACON TOWNSHEND'S VIEW

Whatever faults Christianity might have developed it was not distinguished by narrow local or national prejudices, said the Ven. Archdeacon George Townshend in the course of a sermon in St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin, yesterday.

To-day that pride of race and of nation which marked the Jew in the early days of Christianity and which Christianity discredited, had arisen again and increased in strength. They could trace its beginning to the time of the Renaissance, when explorers discovered strange lands and returned with stories which gave birth to the idea that when foreigners were different, they were inferior. Europe began to win a position of increasing economic supremacy and the infiltration of Europeans to other continents was so marked that there were now some 150 million Europeans living outside the continent of Europe. So rapid was Europe's climb to ascendancy that the white man lost his perspective and forgot the debts which the world owed to the other continents and countries—to Asia and Africa, Persia, India and China. The Europeans began to believe that the white race was inherently superior to every other race; later sections of the white race began to believe that they were in a special degree superior to other sections.

The idea of one race being innately superior to others, or of the existence of distinct and separate races, did not derive from the Bible or from science. Science could not attribute any clearly defined meaning of the word "race"; there was no pure race in existence. There was nothing to show that any one group or race was inherently superior to others; great civilisations had been built by the co-operation of various races. There was nothing in science or in human experience, or the teachings of history, to justify racial prejudices which patriotism had extolled and on which modern policies had so often—and so unhappily—been based; they were as anti-social as they were anti-Christian.

IRISH NEWS IN BRIEF

Clonmel Horse Show Abandoned.—The Committee of Management have decided to abandon this year's Clonmel Horse Show, fixed for a date in July.

* * *

Muckross Abbey.—There were 8,000 pilgrims at Muckross Abbey, Killarney, yesterday, for the ceremonies marking the sixth centenary of the foundation of the abbey and the coming of the Franciscans to Kerry. Solemn High Mass was celebrated by the Most Rev. Dr. O'Brien, Bishop of Kerry. A sermon was delivered by the Rev. Father Costello, O.P., Tralee.

WORK FOR WOMEN

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—In the present crisis public attention is fixed on matters that seem of immediate urgency. In the Senate the question of refugees from various European countries has been raised, and a plea made for Government provision for war victims.

One direct consequence of the war situation has been the closing down of the Irish sweepstakes, and the consequent wholesale dismissal of the employés, practically all women. The number of women formery employed on sweepstake work ran to about 3,000. Most of these are now drawing unemployment benefit, 12s. weekly, which will in turn cease after six months, when many who are destitute will be forced to apply for relief. The majority of those women had dependents, aged parents, young children, invalid husbands. The lot of all is pitiable; at a conservative estimate over 500 are destitute, the rest are now dependent on hard-pressed families.

Had some public calamity, such as bombardment, shipwreck or fire, made suddenly destitute a few thousand women, the public conscience would be instantly roused, and some fund would be raised to help. The need here is just as great, if not so dramatic in form. The victims are Irishwomen; alternative work, save in a few instances, is not to be found; no private help is adequate to meet such an emergency.

The Government has already put forward a scheme for providing work for men in its turf development plan. It has mooted no scheme for the women, many of whom would far prefer work to unemployment money. It is important that someone should raise the matter publicly and put it up to the authorities to take immediate action.

We rely upon you to give your support and sympathy and practical help in formulating some scheme to alleviate the distress of your countrywomen.—Yours, etc.,

W. SHORT.

SALE OF MATCHES CONTROLLED IN BRITAIN

The British Board of Trade announces that under the defence regulations an Order has been made which places under control the sale of matches by manufacturers or importers, and comes into force from to-day. The control is designed to safeguard supplies which are reduced through the loss of imports from European countries.

St. Vincent de Paul Sunshine Fund.—Last Saturday 102 boys were taken on a week's holiday to Sunshine House, Balbriggan, by the Society of St. Vincent de Paul Sunshine Fund. Already this year 402 children (196 boys and 206 girls) have enjoyed a holiday at Sunshine House.

POETRY OF W. B. YEATS

THE ARTIST AND THE MAN

MR. ELIOT'S CRITICAL ESTIMATE

THE first one of what is intended to be a series of Yeats Memorial Lectures was delivered in the Abbey Theatre last night by Mr. T. S. Eliot. For the younger poets of England and America, said Mr. Eliot, he was sure that their admiration of the poetry of Yeats had been wholly good. His idiom was too different for there to be any danger of imitation; his opinions too different to flatter and confirm their prejudices. It was good for them to have the spectacle of an unquestionably great living poet, whose style they could not echo and whose ideas contradicted those in vogue among them.

Yeats, he proceeded, would not have had such influence had he not become a great poet; but the influence of which he spoke was due to the figure of the poet himself, to the integrity of his passion for his art and his craft, which provided such an impulse for his extraordinary development. Unlike many writers, he cared more for poetry than for his own reputation as a poet or his picture of himself as poet. Art was greater than the artist, and that feeling he communicated to others, which was why younger men never were ill at ease in his company.

"This, I am sure, was part of the secret of his ability, after becoming unquestionably the master, to remain always a contemporary."

A COMPARISON

There was, he thought, a difference between the development of Shakespeare and Yeats, which made the latter case still more curious. With Shakespeare one saw a curious, continuous development of mastery of his craft of verse, and the poetry of middle-age seemed implicit in that of early maturity. But in the case of Yeats the kind of development seemed to him unique. Returning to his earlier poems after making a close acquaintance with the later, one saw, to begin with, that in technique there was a slow and continuous development of what was always the same medium and idiom. When he said development, he did not mean that many of the early poems, for what they were, were not as beautifully written as they could be. But the best of them had this limitation, that they were as satisfactory in isolation as "anthology pieces," as they were in the context of his other poems of the same period.

A PERMANENT EXAMPLE

The intensity of Yeats's own emotional experience hardly appeared in the earlier volumes. They had sufficient evidence of experience of his youth, but it was from the retrospections in some of his later work that they had their evidence. To have accomplished what Yeats did in the middle and later years was a great and permanent example, which poets to come should study with reverence, of what he had called character of the artist—a kind of moral, as well as an intellectual, excellence. Yeats was pre-eminently the poet of middle age. The young could see him as a poet who, in his work, remained in the best sense always young—who even, in one sense, became young as he aged. But the old, unless they were stirred to something of the honesty with oneself expressed in the poetry, would be shocked by such a revelation of what a man really was and remained.

AS DRAMATIST

"I do not know where our debt to him as a dramatist ends," said Mr. Eliot, "and in time it will not end until the drama itself ends."

There were some poets whose poetry could be considered more or less in isolation for experience and delight. There were others whose poetry, though giving equally experience and delight, had a larger historical importance. Yeats was one of the latter—he was one of those few whose history was the history of their own time, who were a part of the consciousness of an age, which could not be understood without them. That was a very high position to assign Yeats, but he believed that it was one which was secure.

TRIBUTE TO MR. ELIOT

Introducing Mr. Eliot, Professor H. O. White, who presided, said that he welcomed him on behalf of the Friends of the Irish Academy of Letters, under whose aegis the lecture was given. The date had been chosen as the nearest to the birthday of the poet that it had been possible to arrange. They hoped to have these lectures annually, on some subject connected with Irish literature. In Mr. Eliot they recognised one of the greatest of living poets and critics. Modern of the moderns, he remained in the great tradition of English poetry.

Perhaps more than any other, he had seen the terrifying futility of their modern life. He had recognised, with a vision rare among modern poets, the fundamental association between religion and poetry.

A vote of thanks to the lecturer was passed on the motion of Mr. Monk Gibbon, seconded by Riobaird O Farachain.

For the thirteenth successive time Mr. John McCormack (Fianna Fail) was elected Chairman of Limerick County Council. Mr. M. O'Donnell (Fianna Fail) was re-elected Vice-Chairman.

For the past 24 years the chair of the Ennis Urban Council has been filled by Senator T. V. Honan (Fianna Fail). He again has been unanimously re-elected.

Leitrim County Council re-elected unanimously Mr. Stephen Flynn, T.D., as Chairman and Mr. John McGarry as Vice-Chairman.

DROWNED WHILE BATHING

WATERFORD MAN'S FATE

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

WATERFORD, Saturday.

Mr. Gerard Kelly, junior, manager of Messrs. T. and H. Gallwey's Spirit Stores, Waterford, a Freeman of the City, and a member of the Waterford Boat Club (of which he was secretary for several years) and Waterford Dramatic Society, lost his life while bathing at Tramore (Guillameen) Cove.

At the inquest, which was held by Dr. Myles Shelly, Deputy Coroner for County Waterford, and a jury, Dr. Nicholas Purcell, Tramore, stated that he was called to Guillameen at about 9.15 p.m. He saw there a body floating in the sea about sixty yards from the slip. He examined the body when it was brought ashore, and he found life was then extinct. He was of the opinion that the primary cause of death was heart failure, due to shock, excitement and over-exertion.

A verdict in accordance with the medical evidence was recorded.

MINISTER'S CALL FOR RECRUITS

70,000 NOW ENROLLED FOR SERVICE

SPEAKING at an all-party meeting at Mullingar yesterday, Mr. Frank Aiken, Minister for the Co-ordination of Defence Measures, announced that over 70,000 men had now offered their services with the Colours and the Local Security Force, a fact that showed that the spirit of voluntary service was not dead, and he hoped it never would be.

As a nation this country did not contribute in any way to the situation out of which this terrible war had arisen; they had deepest sympathy with all the people affected by it. As Irishmen there was one thing they all desired, and that was that the war should not engulf any portion of this island, North or South. If, even now, all the people were united in a single, sovereign, neutral State, the chances of being involved in war for both the present divisions of the country would be reduced many fold.

FOR THE NORTH TOO

We, he said, in this part of the country not only wish to come through the war ourselves unscathed, but we wish to bring out of it also unscathed our brethren in the six counties of all classes and creeds. If there are some who would not be a party to an honest effort to safeguard this island from destruction and its women and children as well as its manhood from slaughter, nobody would prevent them from betaking themselves elsewhere to work off their belligerency. Looked at even from the point of view of those to whom the interests of the neighbouring island are supreme, it is of infinitely greater strategic importance that this island should be a strong and united neutral, with high morale and a firm purpose to defend its liberties vigorously, than that it should be a weak and reluctant belligerent torn with doubt and division.

Even though 70,000 had enrolled, Mr. Aiken said he was not satisfied, and would not be until every able-bodied man had joined one form of service or another. They must as rapidly as possible become a nation in arms, in which the cream of their young men would be ready to dash to whatever point was attacked with the rest of the man-power organised, and ready to co-operate in defence of their own districts.

I.R.A. VETERANS

As they were aware, the Local Security Force was being divided into two sections, one of which would be armed and the other would be a local auxiliary unarmed police. In the type of warfare in which they might be engaged the former would be invaluable in vital protection work which would otherwise have to be done by the regular forces, who would thereby be freed for the main task of striking hard and fast at the attacking forces. He hoped no man would consider himself too remote to join the security force. The Government relied especially on veterans of the I.R.A. to play a major part in making the local force effective in every parish and townland in the country.

He urged women to join the Red Cross, in which, after about six weeks' training, they could do valuable work. Also that every family should provide itself with some form of protection against air attack. In many cases a cellar or outhouse could be converted into a bullet and blast-proof shelter.

"We have chosen our national general," concluded Mr. Aiken, "and if we wish to be successful we must all obey his orders promptly and with military precision. Those who hang back or who disobey orders in this hour of crisis are like the soldier who will only fight when he wishes and against the enemy of his choice. Such people are no use to any country or any army."

MR. MACENTEE'S WARNING

The illusion that they could feel secure and live unmolested had brought other people down; he wished to destroy the illusion that, while the world rocked about Ireland, the people here might feel secure, said the Minister for Industry and Commerce (Mr. Sean MacEntee), addressing an all-party meeting in Cavan on Saturday.

They should hope and pray that they should not perish because of the illusion which a large number of the people held that this country was invulnerable to attack. There was no mighty fleet to defend Ireland, the only safeguard was the manhood of the country — disciplined and equipped — which would make it clear that an invader could not come unresisted and that his tenure would not be an easy one.

Attackers came to take whatever natural riches the attacked country possessed. Ireland had no gold or iron or coal, but it had got the most fertile soil in Europe.

When appealing for young men to join the defence forces, Mr. MacEntee said that they must make it clear to any prospective attacker that his job would be a futile one. "Every one of us must be prepared to place his life and his resources at the disposal of the nation in the interests of the people." The Minister added that the local defence force would play an important part in the defence of the country if the worst came to the worst.

DANGER OF ATTACK

Mr. James Dillon, T.D., addressing the same meeting, said that the country was in danger of attack, as the result of circumstances which they could not control, and if they did not defend the country it would become the battlefield for two immense foreign armies, because invasion by one belligerent would result in the other belligerent coming to dislodge him.

The people of this country were not asked to fight for property; they were asked to enrol in defence of freedom and individual liberty.

The Very Rev. John Maguire, Administrator, V.F., who presided, said that the Most Rev. Dr. Lyons, Bishop of Kilmore, had directed him to say that he was in full sympathy with the objects of the meeting, and wished it every success.

The Right Rev. Dr. Hughes, Bishop of Kilmore, wrote: "I believe that it is the duty of every citizen to defend his country to the best of his ability, and I hope that the Government will receive every support from the manhood of the country in their effort to avert or to combat the dangers which threaten it. I wish the meeting every success."

T.D.S HELD UP

Two members of the Dail—Mr. James Dillon and Mr. James Coburn—were stopped by members of the R.U.C. when they crossed the Border into Northern Ireland by car on an unapproved road while on their way to a meeting at Roslea, Co. Fermanagh, on Saturday. After satisfying themselves as to the identity of the car's occupants, and that the papers concerning the vehicle were in order, the police permitted the deputies to continue their journey. The incident was due to the fact that all signposts in Northern Ireland have been removed by the local authorities.

At the meeting, which was for the purpose of unveiling an A.O.H. banner, Mr. Dillon said that the permanent unity of the country could be secured only on the basis of friendship and Christian charity; its achievement by any other means must leave afterwards the seeds of dissension and resentment that would hamper the progress of the country for generations to come. Just as there were extremists in the South, so there were extremists in the North, and whatever the good-will might be amongst the masses of the people on both sides of the Border, there were the two groups to keep old enmities alive and stir up new dissensions, each hoping that—in the consequent upheaval—power without responsibility would fall into their hands.

The march of events might bring home to all elements on both sides of the Border the fact that the common safety of all Ireland ultimately depended on Ireland being one in peace and war.

IRISH CLUB CHAMPIONSHIP

Ennis won the final of the Southern Section of the Irish Club Championships when they defeated Waterford by 2,910 points off 48 boards. The teams were: Ennis—Messrs. V. Roughan, T. D. Cooper, J. Dignan, Mrs. M. F. Dowling. Waterford—Dr. N. Purcell, Mr. L. Doolan, Mrs. K. Keller, Miss A. Coghlan.

At the end of the first 12 boards Waterford led by 840 points. At the end of the second 12 Ennis had reduced this lead by 110 points. When 12 had been played in the second half Ennis had wiped out the deficit and were leading by 2,020 points.

In the last 12 boards Ennis added a further 890 points.

GARDEN FETE

ST. BARTHOLOMEW'S MISSIONARY FUNDS

The midsummer garden fête held in the Church Home grounds, Clyde road, on Saturday afternoon in aid of St. Bartholomew's missionary funds and social service in Dublin was a very enjoyable function.

Declaring the fête open, Miss Diana Barton said that by contributing to the support of the missionary funds patrons were helping to preserve the connecting links with the peoples in those distant countries in which their missionaries were at work.

The Rev. Canon Simpson said that St. Bartholomew's maintained two students at an Indian school and also had been able to support the missionary in East Africa. In addition they assisted in the promotion of social services which provided playgrounds and other amenities to large numbers of poor, ill-fed and poorly-clad children in the City of Dublin.

Commander Coote said that upwards of 2,500 children frequented their playgrounds, and, in addition to the ordinary games there, many of them were taught useful occupations like knitting. Now they were about to start an Irish dramatic class among those children.

During the afternoon there were many games and amusements, and clever dancing by the pupils of Miss Ruth Harkness.

Various stalls were run by the Misses Nowell, Miss Power Steele, Miss Hilliard (tea), Misses Brown Misses Heard, Miss Yates, Mrs Cole and Miss Kells (ices, strawberries); Mrs. Mahon, Mrs. Reamsbottom and Mrs Noel Gilbert (household); Mrs. Webb, Miss Nolan, Miss Moffat and Miss Keane (variety). Games and competitions were run by Miss Hamilton, Miss Mathews, Miss Douglas and Miss P. Staples.

EXCITING FINISHES

Free State Gains Third Success: Matona Beats Red Shaft

VISITORS to Limerick Junction races on Saturday had plenty of thrills in the shape of exciting finishes, different races being won by necks and short heads. The most exciting, perhaps was that in which Matona prevailed over Red Shaft in the June Plate, and it was a particularly fine riding effort on the part of W. Howard that enabled Mrs. K. Kelly's horse to win by a short head after Red Shaft had made up a lot of leeway in the closing stages. It was not out of turn that Matona credited his owner with a race, for he had disappointed in many races, but now ran on very generously to withstand the challenge of the top-weight.

Howard previously had been to the fore on Glen of Aherlow, who, in the Holiday Plate, had a winning margin of a neck from the favourite, Gransden, and this capable light-weight jockey by adopting a policy of making every post a winning one had his due reward.

Although the field for the Munster Steeplechase stopped short at four, the race was none the less interesting on that account, for it provided a rare duel between Free State and Sir Sen, which resulted in a short-head victory for Mr. E. Brophy's four-year-old, who was meeting older horses on unfavourable terms on the weight-for-age scale. This was his third success in steeplechases, a remarkable record for a horse of such tender years, and he now goes out of training for a rest well earned.

Miss M. O. Mathieson, a Glasgow lady and a newcomer to the ranks of owners in Ireland, who is acting as Joint Master of the Ormonde Hounds, had a success when St. Martin, an aged horse, who had previously run well in a flat race at Leopardstown, romped home an easy winner of the Cashel Hurdle. The winner was a sound favourite, and there was such another satisfactory result for backers when Mr. P. J. Ruttledge's Humbert, ridden by Joe Canty, prevailed by a neck over Prince Mafia in the Southern Plate.

Saffron Hill, carrying Miss Dorothy Paget's colours, completed a series of three consecutive wins when scoring a runaway victory in the Barronstown Steeplechase. Details:—

NOTABLE SUCCESS FOR MERRION

JACOBSON'S CENTURY FOR TRINITY

Merrion, who have reached the final of the Leinster Senior Cup, had a notable success at Anglesea road on Saturday, when they inflicted their first League defeat on Phœnix by 26 runs, thus confirming cup form. Runs were hard to get, and Merrion, who batted first, were out for 144, the best effort being that of C. J. Little, who made a delightful 55, while he had excellent assistance from C. Mara who weighed in with 23.

Mara played a big part in the Merrion success, for his clever and disturbing fast bowling was chiefly responsible for the comparative collapse of Phœnix, who were all out for 118. J. C. Boucher made an excellent 32 and J. F. McClure batted pluckily for his 20, while J. A. Byrne and F. M. Quinn also offered staunch resistance.

Dublin University wound up their league season with a victory over Pembroke in the College Park by 82 runs. Batting first on an easy wicket, Trinity, in two and three quarter hours, put together 213, when the innings was declared with five wickets down. Pembroke, with two and a quarter hours to bat, never looked like getting the runs, and, after losing half their wickets for 23, were all out five minutes from time for 131.

L. C. Jacobson made his first century in Senior League cricket this season. Going in first wicket down, he was unbeaten at the declaration, and his 107, which was made without blemish, included twelve boundaries. In partnership with L. H. Shrago, who got 43, 99 runs were added for the third wicket.

At Claremont road, Leinster just scrambled home against Y.M.C.A. by 14 runs. The batting on both sides was extremely poor, with the exception of that of N. H. Lambert, for Leinster, and G. Boate, for Y.M.C.A.

THE SCORES

Merrion, 144 (C. J. Little 55, C. Mara 23, Pigot 3 for 68, B. Quinn 3 for 26, Boucher 3 for 42); Phœnix, 118 (J. C. Boucher 32, J. F. McClure 20, Mara 5 for 32, Hart 3 for 23, Curley 2 for 27).

Dublin University, 213 for 5, declared (L. C. Jacobson not out 107, L. H. Shrago 43); Pembroke, 131 (S. G. Murphy 63, Shrago 5 for 48, Harvey 3 for 32).

Leinster, 91 (N. H. Lambert 22, Dobson 7 for 37, Hirst 3 for 48); Y.M.C.A., 77 (G. Boate 24, Graham 5 for 23, Pemberton 2 for 19).

CAPT. JAMESON'S XI. AND ST. COLUMBA'S DRAW

At St. Columba's College on Saturday, Captain T. O. Jameson's XI., who included T. G. McVeagh, J. B. Ganly, Sir George Colthurst, Sir John Maffey and Hon. G. Spring-Rice, and the College team played a drawn game. McVeagh played an admirable innings of 139. Score:—

Schools' Cup (Fours)—Methodist College "A" beat Methodist College "B."

Carrickfergus Cup (Senior Fours)—Belfast Commercial beat Belfast B.C.

Bruce Cup (Maiden Eights)—Belfast Commercial beat Portadown.

Ulster Cup (Junior Fours)—Queen's rowed over.

LAWN TENNIS

NORWOOD'S FINE SUCCESS

GLENAGEARY AND U.C.D. WIN THEIR SECTIONS

Norwood, Glenageary, and University College have won their sections in Class One of the Men's Inter-Club Competition. In the semi-final this evening University College will meet Glenageary at Glenageary, and the winners will oppose Norwood in the final next Wednesday. The defeat of the holders, Lansdowne, at Norwood on Saturday provided the surprise of the season, and was a most exciting struggle.

C. A. Kemp gave his team a great start by defeating R. F. Ryan 6-4, 2-6, 6-4, and K. H. Maynard very nearly emulated his leader against A. E. Fannin. The latter had to save a match point in the second set before finally getting home at 1-6, 8-6, 6-2. Lansdowne's only other success in the Singles was gained by G. P. Jackson over L. P. Gibney, for Norwood won the last three matches. M. B. Treacy beat B. Mathews, B. C. Jennings beat A. H. Archer, and A. V. Swanton beat R. X. Ryan.

Lansdowne hit back by winning the second and third Doubles, so everything depended on the top match. Ryan and Fannin had match points against Kemp and Maynard in the final set, but were defeated in the end, the score being 6-4, 6-8, 8-6.

In Section B the issue lay between Glenageary and Mount Pleasant, and the former, on their own courts, won 5-3. They took four of the six Singles, and one Doubles proved sufficient to bring them through. University College had no difficulty in coming through Section C, and in their last match on Saturday they overwhelmed Anglesea 9-0. Results:—

Section A—Norwood 5, Lansdowne 4.

Section B—Glenageary 5, Mount Pleasant 3, Dublin University 5, Carrickmines 4, Kenilworth 5, Templeogue 3.

Section C—University College 9, Anglesea 0, Rective 5, L.C.C. Rathmines 4.

ELM PARK RECOVER

THREE GOALS' LEAD LOST BY MONTPELIER

ELM PARK .... 8 MONTPELIER ... 5

At the Nine Acres, Phœnix Park, on Saturday, Elm Park, after being three goals in arrears at the end of the first chukkar, defeated Montpelier by 8 goals to 5. Play in the third chukkar was especially brilliant, sweeping from end to end at top speed, and, with all the players hitting the ball well, interest never flagged.

In the first period Mr. Johnson and Mr. Player (2) scored for Montpelier but Elm Park livened up in the second chukkar, when Major Kirkwood went into the side, and in the first minute he placed the ball nicely for Mr. Phibbs to reduce the lead. Major Kirkwood scored from a sixty yards' free hit after Mr. Phibbs had been obstructed on his way through. The pace was speeded up in the third chukkar, and two goals by Mr. MacAulay and Major Kirkwood in as many minutes put Elm Park in the lead by 4-3. Montpelier, however, were not long in arrears; for Mr. Player soon equalised.

Elm Park again went in front in the fourth period, Mr. Usher scoring with a fine back-hander, and goals in the fifth chukkar by Mr. Phibbs, Mr. Tyrrell and Major Kirkwood gave Elm Park a lead of 8-4. They were never in any danger of losing in the final session, in which Mr. Johnson scored for Montpelier.

Montpelier—Mr. G. Malcomson (6 chukkars), Mr. A. Player (6), Mr. J. Johnson (6), Mr. W. Magee (4), Mr. D. Jones (2).

Elm Park—Mr. R. H. Usher (5 chukkars), Mr. D. W. Phibbs (5), Mr. W. Tyrrell (5), Major T. W. Kirkwood (5), Mr. C. J. MacAulay (4).

Umpire—Mr. J. J. Durack.

YACHTING

INCIDENTS IN DUBLIN BAY CLUB RACES

COQUETTE'S HARD LUCK IN WAGS' EVENT

There were two "incidents" in Saturday's racing under the D.B.S.C. flag. In one, Mantis, of the Mermaid class, filled just before the finish, and in the other Coquette gybed on a mark when she held a long lead in the Wags race, and at a time also when a win was a certainty for her. It would have been her third in a week. The wind was strong and puffy from west, and the Mermaids and wags were kept inside harbour. Details:—

R.A.Y.C. Corinthian Match for 21-Footers. Start 2.50 p.m. Finish—Estelle (winner), 5h. 25m. 12s.; Innisfallen (2nd prize), 5h. 22m. 1s.; Oola, 5h. 23m. 4s.; Geraldine, 5h. 23m. 25s. Garavoge retired.

D.B.S.C. Handicap for 17-Footers. Start 3.5 p.m. Finish—Deilginis (winner) (8m.), 4h. 37m. 53s.; Silver Moon (2m.), 4h. 39m. 53s.; Bobolink (7m.), 4h. 40m. 30s.

D.B.S.C. Handicap for Mermaids. Start 3.15 p.m. Finish—Iolar (scr.), 4h. 25m. 15s.; Amy (2nd prize) (3m.), 4h. 26m. 27s.; Daphne (3rd prize) (2m.), 4h. 26m. 40s.; Ruby (winner) (6m.), 4h. 28m. 15s.; Nombril (3m.), 4h. 29m. 21s.; Tuano (5m.), 4h. 29m. 50s.

D.B.S.C. Handicap for Water Wags. Start 3.25 p.m. Finish—Phyllis (2nd prize) (2m.), 4h. 35m. 8s.; Pansy (3m.), 4h. 39m. 11s.; Blue Bird (5m.), 4h. 40m. 25s.; Penelope (2m.), 4h. 40m. 49s.; Vela (winner) (6m.), 4h. 40m. 53s.; Badger (3rd prize) (8m.), 4h. 41m. 41s.; Amyl (4th prize) (8m.), 4h. 42m. 9s.; Mollie (5m.), 4h. 46m. 44s.; Sprite (10m.), 4h. 47m. 4s.

HOWTH CLUB

The Howth Sailing Club's annual Lambay Island races proved a big attraction on Saturday. Huzure, one of the limit boats, secured first prize in the cruisers' handicap, while Rosemary, one of the D.B.S.C. boats, was a smart winner of the match for 17-Footers. Results:—

17-Footers. Start 3.20 p.m. Finish—Rosemary (winner), 6h. 12m. 22s.; Pauline (2nd), 6h. 12m. 38s.; Zaida (3rd), 6h. 13m. 28s.; Echo, 6h. 14m. 8s.; Oona, 6h. 14m. 10s.; Leila, 6h. 14m. 55s.; Mimosa, 6h. 17m. 10s.; Anita, 6h. 21m. 23s.

Eileen finished third, but suffered a recall at the start and did not return and was disqualified, as was Rita.

Handicap for Cruisers. CYCLING

NEW TANDEM RECORD

T. F. Quinn and E. Kirwan (City of Dublin C.C.) won the fifty miles tandem championship of the C.R.E. in a race from Ashtown to Navan and back yesterday. Covering the distance in 1 hour 50 mins. 25 secs., they beat T. Hughes and W. Barclay, the holders of the title, by 1 min. 20 secs., and beat the latter pair's Irish record by 44 secs. Third fastest of the eight teams that finished were P. Clarkin and J. Fagan (Celtic), who did 1 hour 53 mins. 45 secs. With teams in first and fifth places, and an aggregate time of 3 hours 44 mins. 20 secs., the City of Dublin Club won the team award.

LADIES' HANDICAP

Riding from scratch with Miss M. Nugent, the holders of the record, Miss M. Radburn (National) made the fastest time, and beat the record in the 25 miles open handicap for ladies, promoted by the National Club, on the Navan road last afternoon. She returned a time of 1 hour 9 mins. 34 secs., beating the record by 15 secs. Second fastest was Miss Nugent, who did 1 hour 12 mins. 2 secs., and in third place was Miss Hyland, Celtic, who was two minutes slower.

The field of nine included two members of the Ulster Ladies' C.C., and one of the latter, Miss L. Neill, was third in the handicap, which was won by Miss L. Clarke, Alco (6 mins.) by 28 secs. from Miss Radburn.

GAELIC GAMES

FAUGHS TOO STRONG FOR EIRE OG

LOUTH MINORS ENTER LEINSTER FINAL

(BY PAT'O.)

FAUGHS .... 4-7 EIRE OG 2-6

Four pipe bands lent colour at Croke Park yesterday to the tournament organised by the Irish Red Cross. The gold medals—gifts of the Irish insurance companies—were presented by Mrs. Clarke, Lord Mayor, who thanked all concerned for the success of the promotion and the teams for a fine hurling display. There was a good attendance.

Points were exchanged between Langton and Gray before Wade gave Faughs a lead of two points from frees. P. Devitt doubled a ball which Darcy drove to the net, and Faughs led 6-2. Fahy and Langton had minors for Eire Og, but close to half-time Devitt crossed well for Downes to double home a good goal. Faughs led 11-4 at half-time.

Eire Og hurled best in a bright third quarter, during which Langton shone. He crashed home two scores, and the board read 2-5 to 1-5. Faughs again forced the pace, and two grand goals by Mullane and Leahy gave them a sound lead. Butler held up a Kilkenny recovery before Fahy and Langton pierced the Dublin defence. Langton was the opportunist for Eire Og, but Faughs were the more uniform side, and they finished the hour without distress. They are probably the best individual team in Ireland.

LOUTH BEAT DUBLIN

LOUTH .... 1-8 DUBLIN 0-6

Louth used the wind well to run up four points (Kiernan and Corr) before O'Meara opened for Dublin. Brennan had a fine Louth goal, and the visitors led 1-4 to 0-2 at half-time. Dublin played better after the change over, and O'Shea and O'Meara brought the score to all but level terms at 7 points to 6, but two good points by Corr put Louth into the final.

LEINSTER HURLING FINAL

GOLF

THE MILLTOWN OPEN FOURSOMES CUP

FIRST COMPETITION A BIG SUCCESS

The inaugural competition for the Milltown Open Foursomes Cup on Saturday was such a big success that its future as one of the outstanding open events of the year in Dublin is fully assured.

The entry of 83 couples was a representative one, and included plus men and a number of scratchmen. Scoring in the early part of the day, although the course conditions were ideal, was not so good; but the wind subsiding, it improved considerably. It was generally expected that as the day wore on the scoring would be low; but only one pair broke 70, Dr. Paul Murray (4), of the promoting club, and M. G. Murray (14) (combined handicap allowance 11) returning the excellent score of 69. The leading returns were:—

P. F. Murray (4) (Milltown) and M. G. Murray (14) (Killiney)—69.

Captain D. V. Horgan (3) (Milltown) and J. W. Tunney (10) (Milltown)—71½ (second on second nine).

WEDDINGS

MR. W. I. T. DE COURCY WHEELER AND MISS P. L. C. BADHAM

From Our Correspondent.

LONDON, Sunday.

Mr. William Ireland Thomas de Courcy Wheeler, only son of Surgeon Rear-Admiral Sir William de Courcy Wheeler, noted Irish Harley street specialist, and of Lady Wheeler, eldest daughter of Lord Craigmyle, was married to Miss Patricia Louise Campbell Badham, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. C. Badham, of Hassocks, Sussex, at St. James's Episcopal Church, Aberdeen, on Saturday.

LIEUT. L. J. O'DONNELL AND MISS C. MEADEN

Lieutenant Laurence J. O'Donnell, R.A.M.C., son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael P. O'Donnell, of Palmyra, Avoca avenue, Blackrock, County Dublin, was married to Miss Christine Meaden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard J. Meaden, of Ashley Court Mansions, Epsom, Surrey, at Westminster Cathedral on Saturday.

MR. P. A. RAWLINSON AND MISS H. KAVANAGH

At the Brompton Oratory, London, the wedding took place on Saturday last of Mr. Peter A. Rawlinson, son of Major and Mrs. A. R. Rawlinson, Marlborough Court, London, and Miss Haidee Kavanagh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kavanagh, Dolland, Clonsilla, County Dublin.

The Rev. John Brendan Lavery, O.S.B., D.D., Downside, officiated.

The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. M. Kavanagh, and Mr. Christopher Dodd acted as best man.

Miss Sheelagh Kavanagh (sister of the bride) and Miss Alice Dodd were bridesmaids.

PILOT-OFFICER G. W. CORY AND MISS M. I. STEWART

The wedding took place on Saturday last at St. Bartholomew's Church, Notgrove, of Pilot-Officer Guy Webster Cory, R.A.F., son of Mr. Percy Webster Cory, and the late Mrs. Cory, Manor Farm, Notgrove, Gloucester, and Miss Mary Isabel (Sammie) Stewart, daughter of the Rev. C. S. Stewart and Mrs. Stewart, St. Peter's Rectory, Drogheda.

The Rev. E. P. R. B. Grundy officiated.

The bride, who was given away by Mr. W. H. Johnston, wore a full-skirted gown of ivory satin and a veil of old Limerick lace, arranged over a cluster of cream coloured rosebuds, and she carried a bouquet of cream and dark red roses.

Mrs. I. H. Murray acted as matron-of-honour, and Mr. P. M. Ryder as best man.

Owing to present conditions the bride's parents were unable to be present, and the bridegroom's stepmother deputised for Mrs. Stewart, who gave the reception at the Manor Farm, Notgrove.

The honeymoon is being spent on a motor tour. The bride's going-away ensemble consisted of an ice-blue bolero dress with wine-coloured accessories, and a blue fox fur.

A submarine net has been installed in Sandy Hook Bay, outside New York Harbour. It will remain there until August 15, it was stated in New York. The step is said to be one "purely for naval training purposes."

IRISH EXCHEQUER RETURN

THREE MONTHS' FIGURES

GROWTH OF REVENUE AND EXPENDITURE

THE Irish Exchequer return for the first quarter of the financial year 1940 was issued on Saturday by the Department of Finance.

The revenue is £1,363,894 higher, compared with the first three months of 1939, and expenditure is £499,728 more than 1939. Totals:—

REVENUE.		EXPENDITURE.
1940	£7,434,960	1940	£8,559,975
1939	6,071,066	1939	8,060,247
Higher...	£1,363,894	More	£499,728

FOUR YEARS' TOTALS

The revenue for the first quarter of the last four years was:—

1940	£7,434,960
1939	6,071,066
1938	6,190,645
1937	6,144,895

The corresponding figures of expenditure are:—

1940	£8,559,975
1939	8,060,247
1938	8,533,503
1937	7,535,135

INCREASES AND DECREASES

The increases and decreases under the various heads of revenue and expenditure, compared with 1939, are shown in the following table:—

REVENUE	£		£
Customs	3,527,000	+	818,000

DIVIDENDS AND REPORTS

Allied Ironfounders (England).—Decline of £88,154 to £115,235 in revenue during the year to March 31 last. Revenue from subsidiaries fell by £91,757 to £100,353, but part of this decline was offset by a bigger yield on other investments. Net profit £112,424 (against £198,428), and the Ordinary dividend of 5 per cent. (of which 2½ per cent. has already been paid as an interim) compares with 9 per cent. paid a year ago. The amount carried forward is £178,197 (against £160,918).

Shell Transport and Trading.—Net profit for 1939 dropped from £6,630,590 in the previous year to £2,477,844. This figure is after all provision, including reserves against losses caused by hostilities. Total income (dividends and interest from sundry companies, interest on investments, loans, etc., and other credits, less debits) is £4,152,807 down at £2,527,766; directors' fees, expenses, etc., again take slightly less than £50,000. After the 5 per cent. free of tax interim dividend on the Ordinary shares and the usual Preference dividends there remains £427,231 to be carried forward, as compared with £206,668 brought in. In 1938 the total payment on the Ordinary was 20 per cent., tax free.

North British Rayon.—In view of the necessity of conserving cash resources during the present emergency, the Board have decided to defer the consideration of any distribution on account of Preference dividend.
